LOVE AND MONEY.

BY GEO. CANNING HILL.

"WHAT are your views about matrimony, Charley?" asked the gay and gallant Tom Hunter, of his intimate companion Charley Dample, as he sat lounging in his office one warm summer's forenoon.

"My views?" exclaimed Dample, looking up from the big book he labored so hard to hold in his hand.

"Yes," answered Tom: you have them havn't you?"

"Yes, but upon what particular point?"

"Confound your lawyer like questions! Do you think, then, that a marriage except for money, is good for any thing at all?"

The youthful attorney hemmed, and acted as if trying to clear his throat preparatory to giving utterence to some important opinion in reply.

"In other words," interrupted and added Tom, "wouldn't you advise a fellow to marry, first of all, for money?"

"Ahem!" replied Charley Dample, "why—that is—no, I shouldn't."

"Well, what for, then?"

"Why, what else can a man marry for, except for love?"

"Love?" contemptuously reported Tom Hunter, "Love is all well enough, I own, in its place; but money is current every where. Love isn't love, if one is out of money. So what's the sense in talking this sort of sentimental stuff?"

The young lawyer preserved a silence, prefering to offer no further impediment to the free expression of his friend's singular opinions on the subject.

"Well, continued Tom. I'll tell you what t'is. I'm going to marry a fortune. I don't say, mind, that I marry only for the fortune; but it's a settled fact that I shall marry money or nothing!"

"Got your wife picket out?" asked Charley, looking up at his companion over the edge of his book.

"Did you ever hear of the young widow Wise?"

"Of the widow Wise?" rejoined Charley Dample. "Of course I have. Isn't she the belle of —— street?" Wasn't I but lately made happy in receiving a bow from her on the promenade? What are you thinking of? Of course I know her."

"Well—you cant imagine the rest," said Tom, winking slily.

"Ah, yes! I do—I do! you are after her?"

"Well—she isn't without money, I confess," replied Tom, quite sagely.

"And I wish you success in your chase—"

"Thank you! Thank you truly!"

"And much enjoyment of your fortune, after you have got it," added the young lawyer.

"The fact is," said Tom, "I wouldn't have admitted to any one else what I have admitted to you. Charley: our friendship, you know, has long been intimate, and I feel at liberty to entrust you with a few of my more important secrets—as this."

"I hope I am able to keep them safely for you," replied his companion with an expression it would be difficult to characterize or define.

Somewhat less than a year after this short conversation, the two young men were once more sitting together. The countenance of the one appeared wreathed with smiles, while that of the other was shaded with a cloud. What that cloud was, was not very long in transpiring.

"Dample," said Tom Hunter, "you are my friend still?"

"I hope you account me such," was his ready reply.

"Yes! well, I must make you acquainted with a secret I guess you don't know."

"What is it?" inquired Dample, looking intently in his face.

"I have been some months married," said Tom.

"And so have I," rejoined his companion.

"I married for money," said Hunter.

"And you didn't miss your mark either," replied his friend Dample.

"Don't be too hasty! I beg you not to trust too much to appearances?"

"What! isn't your wife rich, then?"

"To be sure she it, but—"

"But what, then, in the name of common sense?" asked Charley Dample hurriedly and anxiously.

"I'm no richer, though, for it?"

Dample bit his finger nails, and was silent.

"Perhaps you never dreamed of such a thing?" added Tom, interrogatively.

"No—no, I never did; explain to me. I am all in the dark about it."

"It's a secret you know—all between us?"

"Yes—yes?"

"I married for money, sure enough! If I'd married for love, there would have been some sense in it; I might then have counted with some certainty on what I was after."

All the time that he was speaking, his friend Dample kept his eyes riveted upon him, anxious to break the mystery that enshrouded his matrimonial affairs.

"The fact is, Charley," continued he, "I'm actually tired of the scrape I find I've got into."

"What! not tired of your wife, Tom!" exclaimed the young attorney.

"Why, no; not exactly that—but something doesn't hitch to suit me. I don't know what or where it is."

Again Dample fell to gnawing his nails, and thinking briskly and silently.

"Why, perhaps you'll understand it better from a sample of my life," said Tom.

Dample listened more intently, if possible, than before.

"You see, to begin with since I was married, the old gentleman has cut me short of supplies. He gave me a swad to start on, and then told me that I must look to myself and my wife for support in future. What he gave me has contrived to pay my board bills, and all such necessary trifles; but, to tell the truth, I have had to cut myself most unmercifully short on such articles as liquors, cigars, and so forth!"

Dample gave loose to the influence of a good natured smile.

You may smile, and laugh, if you choose, but you will find that it comes hard for me to do so! The fact is, Charley, I must either change my compass, or else burst up entirely!"

"What! and with a rich wife too!—That would look pretty, for a man like

"But I was going to tell you. I had tried all sorts of ways; he had my little, trifling bills sent home to her, in the hope that she would pay them: hinted to her, in every imaginable manner; and finally, I resolved to talk with her. I did so:"

"I should have thought that to be the best way," interrupted the young lawyer.

"It might seem so, but I dont think I made very much by it. Said I, when I sat down, Nelly, I've got something on my mind that troubles me."

"Do rid yourself of it, Mr. Hunter," said she in a manner that was highly provoking.

"I'm out of money," I ventured to suggest.

"I'm very sorry for it," she coolly replied.

"But couldn't you—"

"Me! I do anything about money!" exclaimed she in a voice of well-feigned surprise.

"Yes, Nelly," said I, "couldn't you give the power to draw out your dividend at the bank, and sell your stock there when I thought I could make a good trade for you."

"Tom, my darling!" was all she would reply, "you know I'm above troubling myself about these money matters. I married only for love!" and with these words, she flung herself heavily, not to say crushingly, upon my neck smothering me with kisses.

"I tried to extricate myself, but could not. When at length she chose herself to give me room to breath, she insisted on never hearing another word from me on the subject of money; for she says that love and love for money cannot well go together a great way and desires to live only off of my love! She wont hear a word about money matters."

"What a sweet creature you have married to be sure!" said Dample, tantalizingly.

"Don't, pray, tell me of it!" replied Tom. "I don't see but one way ahead from me, and that is—to go to work for myself! Nelly insists that we married only for love, and there is no more use in my speaking to her on the subject of money, than there would be in my expecting it to rain gold pieces for me!"

"But I didn't marry for money," said Dample.

"No, and you thereby married both love and money!" replied Tom, turning sorrowfully from him and hurrying out at the door.

Population of the United States.

PAST AND FUTURE.—Wm. Darby has communicated to the National Intelligencer, the following synopsis of the population of the United States, according to the several censuses taken, with the probable aggregate at each decenial numbering during the next century—viz:

Table I.—Population of the United States, as recorded in the Tabular view of the Seven Enumerations made by the Decennial Census, 1790 to 1850, inclusive.

1790,	3,929,872
1800,	5,305,952
1810,	7,239,814
1820,	7,638,131
1830,	12,866,920
1840,	17,663,253
1850,	23,144,126

Table II.—Prospective view of the population of the United States from 1860 to 1950, inclusive, on the ratio of one and a third decennially, as found by table, very nearly.

1860,	30,958,000
1870,	41,145,000
1880,	54,859,000
1890,	73,144,000
1900,	97,525,000
1910,	120,034,000
1920,	160,045,000
1930,	213,360,005
1940,	284,480,000
1950,	379,307,000

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—A few days ago, it is stated, a fireman, on the Georgia State Railroad was caught by the feet between the locomotive and tender, and held fast in this position, his head hanging downwards, and his feet dreadfully crushed. Neither the conductor nor the passengers had the presence of mind to use proper exertions to relieve him, and the poor fellow in his agony entreated them to saw his legs off. Finally, this was actually done by some one, with a common hand saw, and the man was allowed to drop to the ground, bleeding to death. No effort was made to stop the hemorrhage, and the poor victim of this more than savage stupidity and barbarism soon bled to death. After the fireman was thus relieved from his position, a bar of iorn was obtained, and the locomotive and tender pried apart, so that the feet were rescued and dopped out from between them.

THE THIEF CAUGHT.—Mr. Slack returned from Cincinnati on Friday evening last, bringing with him a man named William Reese, one of the individuals engaged in robbing the County Treasury a few weeks since. About $1,900 of the money—a Gold Watch, a span of horses and buggy, purchased with a portion of the money, have been recovered. Two other men were also engaged in the robbery, of whom nothing as yet been heard.

[Huntington Herald.

GOOD NATURE.—One cannot imagine any quality of the human mind whence greater advantages can arise to society than good nature, seeing that man is a social being not made for solitude but conversation. Good nature not only lessens the sorrows of life, but increases its comforts. It is more agreeable than beauty or even wit. It gives a pleasing expression to the countenance and induces a multitude of the most amiable observations.—It is, indeed, the origin of all society. Were it not for good nature, men could not exist together nor hold intercourse with one another.

From the State Sentinel.

The State Fair.

It is supposed that fifty thousand persons visited the Fair yesterday. The ground was thronged the whole day: and strangers were constantly arriving. The articles on exhibition are very numerous and varied, and, of course of the very best quality.

Among the cattle, the most numerous specimens are the thorough bred short horns, there being forty-eight entries of these alone.—Prominent among these are the two cows and the yearling heifer of Mr. Hutchcraft, of Ky., and the bull "Earl of Seaham" belonging to Mr. Dennis, the superintendent, which have heretofore been noticed in our paper. "Oregon," a white Durham, also from Wayne co is a splendid animal, probably fully equal to the "Earl of Seaham." "Gold Coin," a son of "Oregon," and "Barton," belonging to Mr. Duncan, of Clarke county, Ky., are also very fine animals. Mr. Smith, of Hendricks county, and Mr. Bruly, of Wayne, and several other persons whose names we could not learn, also exhibited some very fine short horns.

The most beautiful cattle on the ground, however, in our opinion, are the Devons.—There are about a dozen of these, and they attract considerable attention. We believe they belong to Mr. Collins, of Hamilton co., and to Mr. Kenyon, of Wayne co.

A number of very fine oxen and steers are present. One steer is nearly six feet high, and is said to weigh nearly 2,000 lbs., although he is far from being fat. We did not learn who is his owner.

Mr. Downing has a large number of Merino bucks, from New York. They are for sale, and are said by judges to be of a superior quality.

There are also a few Cotswold and Leicester sheep, which are fine animals.

A number of very large hogs are on exhibition, though the variety is not so great, nor the stock so good as might be looked for in a State which raises so much pork as Indiana does.

Next to the cattle, the horses make the best show. We found it, however, extremely difficult to learn anything about them, as, but very few instances, did we find any one at the stalls who could give information concerning them.

Mr. Reeves, of Putnam county, has a fine bay stallion—"Sir Archie Ranger," two years old; and "Boxer Whip," belonging to Mr. Levi Cook, of Hamilton county, is also a fine animal.

The poultry makes a considerable show.—Among the chicken are the "Poland," "Bantam," and "Shanghae" varieties; there are "Muscovy" and "Poland" ducks, wild geese, some large turkies, and a few very beautiful pigeons and doves.

Mechanic's Hall contains a fine display of machinery and farming implements. Prominent among all are the scales from Dayton & Co.'s manufactory, at Rochester, N. Y.—There are any quantity of threshing machines, reapers, plows, corn planters, corn sheilers, straw cutters, &c. &c. Among the reapers, we are inclined to give the palm to Dunmore's self-raking reaper. Gathing's Wheat Drill receives considerable commendation.

There are some beautiful specimens of carriages and buggies. A carriage by Messrs. W. P. & A. Applegate, of Connersville, and a buggy by H. R. Gaston, of this city, are equal in workmanship, beauty of style, and finish to the best we ever saw anywhere.—Mr. Lippincott, of Richmond, and others, also contribute some fine specimens of carriage architecture.

The Cincinnati Artists' Union exhibits a copy of Cole's "Voyage of Life," by Soutag, a western artist of great merit. These pictures are said, by competent judges, to be equal to the originals, and a view of them is well worth the price of admission. The series will be distributed at the next drawing of the Union, which will be in January next.

The same Union also exhibits two beautiful engravings—"In a Quandary," and the "Teachings of Nature." These engravings are to be given to every subscriber to the Union. They are each worth the subscription price—five dollars.

Manufacturer's Hall is always crowded, because it contains the "fancy work" and the "flowers"—what there are of them. The season however is so far advanced that but few flowers and plants, are on exhibition.—Among them are a beautiful bunch of roses, deposited by ——, two lemon trees, bearing fruit; some very fine dahlias; and a cactus and century plant, by Mrs. Ohr, of this city.

There are some beautiful specimens of needle-work on exhibition, by Miss Anne A. Jordan, Mrs. Wygant, and Miss Henderson, of this city, and Miss Cummins, of Madison. Miss Savitz, of Jeffersonville, contributes a lot of beautiful artificial flowers, accompanied by a very creditable letter to Gov. Wright.—Miss Redfield exhibits a beautiful specimen of crotchet work. But the most beautiful and elaborate specimens of needle work we ever saw are those deposited by Mrs. Charlesworth, of Madison, and Miss Sallie Beybridge, of St. Mary's of the Woods. The "Washington," by this latter lady, resembles, at a short distance, a fine painting, and is altogether the most artistic needle work we ever saw. The lady undoubtedly possesses considerable genius.

Among the most attractive articles in the Hall were the specimens of porcelain ware exhibited by Mr. Morris, of this city, and Messrs. Winchell, Phelps & Co., agents for the manufacturers. It is of American manufacture, the first that has ever been exhibited, we believe, in the West—at least the company at present manufacturing it is the first one to succeed in making good American porcelain. Their ware in every respect is much better than the foreign, and only about half as costly. During the day we frequently saw persons amusing themselves by striking fire with a piece of steel, from the bottom of a saucer, or some other equally frail article of a tea set.—We have spoken of this ware before.

A large crowd was always standing round the "Percussion Seal Press" of P. Evans, jr. This is one of the most convenient and useful little articles on exhibition. It is used with greater ease and less consumption of time than any press ever before invented, and seems to be the ne plus ultra of seal presses. It is light, elegant, and durable, weighing only about two lbs., and can be carried in the pocket. It is cheap too—seal and press all complete, costing only five dollars—considerably less than half the price of the old press—All that is required to produce an impression equal to the weight of a ton, is a quick hard blow with the open hand! Every business men should have one.

Among the threshing machines, the "Improved Machine for threshing and cleaning Grain," from the manufactory of A. Gaar & Co., Richmond, attracted the most attention. It was a beautiful specimen of workmanship, and was awarded the first prize—a silver cup—as the best thresher on exhibition. On Thursday it threshed several bushels of wheat at the rate of one bushel in 45 seconds, or eighty bushels in an hour.

Probably the best specimen of neat and elegant workmanship on the ground, was a buggy manufactured by H. R. Gaston, of this city. The wood is all, or nearly all hickory, and is not painted, but varnished and polished. The slightest defect in the wood or workmanship could thus be readily detected, but we believe there is not the least in either. It was altogether the most beautiful carriage at the Fair, and is highly creditable to the skill and taste of the manufacturer.

The best saddle we ever saw was deposited by G. L. Fearis, of Connersville. The price asked for it is fifty dollars, and from the labor which evidently must have been expended upon it, the quality of the materials used, and the ease which the saddle would apparently afford to both horse and rider, we are inclined to think fifty dollars a low price for it.

A spinning wheel invented by Mr. Matheny of Dearborn county, and exhibited by Joseph Stoops, of this county, who owns the right, attracted much attention from the farmers' wives and daughters. So did an improved Hand-Loom, exhibited by Quackenboss & Davis, of Morgan county. These machines gave evidence that even in the good old "spinning wheel and cottage loom," much improvement can be made.

A locomotive lamp, manufactured by Olcott & Brother, Rochester, N. Y., appeared to be well fitted for what it was designed—to give a brilliant light. A fire proof Safe, from the manufactory of Duryee, Forsyth & Co., Rochester elicited much commendation from business men.

Messrs. W. H. & H. E. Cerro Rushville, J. Sulgrove, of this city, and R. St. John, of Terre Haute, each contributed specimens of splendid harness. Mr. A. Wigginston & Brother, of Martinsville, exhibited a beautiful Ladies' Hooped Saddle, which was much admired.

Pumps of all sorts were plentifully exhibited. The "Hydraulic Force and Lift Pump," manufactured by G. D. Winchell & Co., Cincinnati, being the most novel in its construcure, attracted the most attention.

The foregoing are only a few of the many articles on exhibition, and are such as attracted our attention in passing. The Executive Committee failed to make any arrangement for the accommodation of reporters, and the exhibitors, in many instances, were not present, so that many articles which merited a notice escaped attention. This was peculiarly the case with the horses, and the fruit and vegetables.

The Fair passed off pleasantly; the weather was fine the whole time, and not a single serious accident occurred. Some pockets were picked, and some money and other articles were lost, as was to be expected, but probably no serious inconvenience followed to the sufferers. We believe all, or nearly all who visited the city found some kind of accommodations—as good as could be expected, considering the crowd, which on Thursday was estimated to be from 45,000 to 50,000 persons.

We have not heard what the receipts were, but presume they were considerably more than enough to pay expenses.

We shall publish a list of the premiums as soon as we can get them.

"Duty and Glory"—The Difference.—The Home Journal thus faithfully and felicitously depicts with a few strokes of the pen, the character of the late Duke of Wellington, and the distinctives differences in his character and his great antagonist, Bonaparte:

"It has been said that the Duke of Wellington never wrote a despatch in which the world DUTY did not occur, and that Napoleon never wrote a despatch to which the world GLORY was wanting. That is the difference between the two men, and the two countries which they belonged. It was the moral superiority that made Wellington the final victor. As a mere general, the Duke of Wellington was immeasurably the inferior of Napoleon. Napoleon displayed more genius in any one campaign, than Wellington did in his whole life; but the dogged man of Duty triumphed at length over the brilliance of Glory:—so it was in the beginning, is now, ever shall be. The Frenchman may laugh at the solidity and stupidity of the English man. But so long as the one race is capable of believing in the august and commanding nature of Duty and the other race is not, England's supremacy will be maintained. For every Napoleon produced by France, Britain will always be able to find a Wellington. The Duke was particularly fitted to command an English army, as much as his great antagonist to lead the Soldiers of France. There was no flummery, club-trap or humbug about Wellington. Brief and plain in speech, vigorous in forcing obedience, doing equal justice to all ranks—a gentleman and a man of principle—his soldiers always knew what to expect from him, and could shape their conduct accordingly. Other generals have excited more enthusiasm in their men, but none was ever more respected and relied on than the Iron Duke."

NEW YORK, Oct 23.

M. O. Robert, agent of the U. S. Mail steamer, has addressed a letter to Hon. M. C Conrad, relative to the treatment received by the Crescent City and other steamships of his line, from the Cuban Government, protesting in the strongest manner against the high handed outrages committed upon them, and requesting the action of the United States Government.

George Law, President of the Company, has also adressed Mr. Conrad, calling his attention to Mr. Robertson's letter. Mr. Conrad in reply to Mr. Law, under date of Washington 25th, says: yours of the 21 inst. has been received as no intelligencer has reached Cuba since that was brought by your office: has no means answering the intentions of the authorities of the Island other that what you propose yourself and cannot therefore inform you whether the mail or passengers will be permitted to land there or not, it may now ever be inferred from the past proceedings of the authorities that the mails and passengers conveyed in the Crescent City will not be permitted to land there in case Wm. Smith should remain on board. Lieut. Schenck did not sail in the Crescent City in consequence of being detained by railroad accident. The owners of the C.C. insisted on Smith's sailing in her, which he did.

WOUNDS IN CATTLE.—Are readily healed, when the animal's blood is in good order, by applying a salve made of 2 oz. green copperas; 2 oz. white vitrol; 2 oz. salt; 2 oz linseed oil; 8 oz. molasses. Boil over a slow fire 15 minutes in a pint of urine, and when almost cold, add 1 oz. oil of vitrol, and 4 oz. spirits turpentine. Apply it with a feather to the wounds, and cure soon follows.—The Wool Grower.

Unfortunate for the Whigs.—Iron keeps rising, and as a natural consequence, the spirits of the whigs keep falling. What a pity, says the editor of the Doylestown Democrat, it is, that a little bit of "national ruin" could not be got for the special benefit of the party that "rises as the country sinks, and sinks as the country rises."

Won't somebody please blow out a furnace or stop a forge, or "bust up" a glass factory, until after the election?—Newark Eagle.

The Cayuga Chief is responsible for the following. He has been through the mill and ought to know how to manage the the affairs of which he speaks:—

Young man! keep your eye peeled when you are after the women. If you bite at the naked hook, you are green. Is a pretty dress or form so attractive? Or a pretty face even? Flounces, boy, are of no sort of consequence. A pretty face will grow old. Paint will wash off. The sweet smile of the flirt will give way to the scowl of the termagant. The neat form will be pitched into dirty calico. Another and far different being will take the place of the lovely goodness who smiled sweet smiles and eat your sugar candy.

Keep your eye peeled, boy, when you are after the women. If the little dear is cross and scolds at her mother in the back room, you may be sure that you will get particular. Sits all round the room. If she apologizes for wiping dishes, you will need a girl to fan her. If she blushes when found at the wash-tub with her sleeves rolled up, be sure sir, that she is of the cod fish aristocracy, little breeding and less sense. If you marry a gal who knows nothing but to commit woman slaughter upon the piano, you have got the poorest piece of music ever got up. Find the one whose mind is right, and then pitched in. Don't be hanging round like a sheep; think as thought ashamed to be seen in the day time, but walk up like a chicken to the dough and ask for the article a like man.

A singular method of finding drowned persons.—The late Dondon papers relates that on Saturday, the 20th ult., an agricultural laborer named Solomon Dunford, left Crown public house, opposite the Fountain Hotel, West Cowes, Isle of Wight, for a few moments, leaving his basket and a pint of beer, partly drunk, but did not return. On Monday of the next week, at noon, the body was discovered in the water, near the Fountain Quay. The features did not assume the same appearance as is usual in drowned persons, the face being entirely black. A "novel process" was used for the recovery of the body by one of the coast guard. On Friday morning the circumstance being made known to him, he assured the bystanders that if the party was drowned in the neighborhood, he would discover the body by means of a new loaf of bread, in which should be deposited three ounces of quick-silver, when the loaf would float till it rested over where the body might lay." However extraordinary it may appear, the experiment was tried, and on the loaf becoming stationary, a boathook was put overboard beneath it, and brough up the body.—The man states that this is the fourth instance in which the experiment has been tried by him with him.

CONUNDRUMS.—Why is an honest man like a gold mine? Because he is hard to find.

Why is a hundred dollar bill like a ton of iron? Beause it is hard to raise.

Why is a broken merchant like a race horse? Because he is hard run for money.

Why is a drunken man like dog fennel? Because he is on every side of the road.

Why is an editor like a pastry cook? Because he needs his dough.

Why is a methodist preacher like a night-hawk? Because he's death on chickens.—Carrollton Mirror.

Aggricultural Fair.—This reunion of the farmers of Elkhart county, held in this place last week, passed off well and produced, we have no doubt, a good effect on the aggricultural community. The address by Mr. Nelson, of Allen, we had not the privilege of hearing, not being able to gain admittance to the Court House in consequence of the immense crowd. We hear it spoken of, however, as an able and excellent production, and a resolution having passed requesting for that purpose, we hope hereafter to have the pleasure of publishing it.

We had expected publish, this week, the to proceedings and list of premiums, but have not been able, after considerable enquiry, to obtain them for this issue.—Goshen Dem.

Fifty years ago he used to go out hunting with his grandson, and it is not quite one hundered year since he made his third marriage with a young girl of nineteen, whom he has outlived by 44 years.

Indianapolis and Bellefontine Railroad.—This road will be finished to Winchester 74 miles from Indianapolis in a few days, and to Union, some 10 miles, by the first of December. The road from Galion on the C. C. & C road, to connect with the Indianapolis and Bellefontaine, will be in operation through ere long, which will give its a rapid and very direct railway connection with the capital of Indiana and the Wabash Valley. When the lines in progress are completed, this will be a direct and favorite route to St. Louis, on the average of a very extensive trade and travel.

THE ELECTION in Allen County was warmly contested; the whigs fought with desperation, knowing their very existence as a party depended on the result. Every artifice was resorted to—every trick adopted to deceive and and mislead our citizens—and even, if we are not misinformed, attempts made to bribe them into the support of Gen. Scott. But it was all in vain. The democracy were firm and incorruptible; the falsehoods of the whig leaders recoiled on their own heads. This township gave a majority for Pierce and King of 349 votes, and Allen county of 739!!—Honor to the Allen Democracy! If we have not given the largest majority of any county in the State, we have, in view of what we had to contend against, achieved the greatest victory, and we claim to be considered the banner democratic county of Indiana.

THE ELECTION.—In another column we give all the elelection news that has come to hand. The wires are down to-day, so we have nothing later than we gave in our extra yesterday. It will be seen that Pierce is elected—and that, too, by a larger majority than was ever before given for a President. This is a gratifying result, and one highly honorable to the democracy and the people of the United States generally. It shows that they are not to be misled by the glare and tinsel of mere military glory, but that they require something more in a man who aspires to the high honor of the Presidency of this mighty republic. It will we trust put an end to this system of military hero-ism, and learn even the whigs that the people are becoming too enlightened to be led astray by shallow devices. The age of military humbug has passed away, and a man hereafter to have any chance for the Presidency must possess the requisite civil and statesmanlike qualifications for office. It is a great triumph of principle, and ages yet unborn will reap the benefit of it.

The whigs are certainly most wofully defeated. We do not feel like rejoicing over a prostrate foe; but we cannot refrain from expressing some gratification at the glorious result, and congratulating our fellow citizens on the noble victory they have achieved.

CANAL TRUSTEE.—A Canal Trustee will have to be elected by the Legislature at its approaching session. We think it would be no more than fair that he should be selected from this end of the line this time, as heretofore they have all been residents of the southern portion. We cannot see any just reason why so few public officers are taken from Northern Indiana. All, or nearly all, of our candidates on the late State ticket live south of the National Road: and yet it is in the northern counties that the greatest and most reliable democratic strength is to be found.

We would recommend our fellow citizen, ISAAC D. G. NELSON, as a suitable person to fill the responsible station. For talents, industry, independence, and business qualifications, he will compare favorably with any other man who can be named. He is well known throughout the State as one of the most efficient and industrious members of the late Legislature, and will be a popular candidate with such members of the present Legislature as served with him during the past session.—We should certainly be pleased to see him elected, and we think he can, if the members from the North give him that hearty and united support to which he is so well entitled.

THANKSGIVING.—Gov. Wright has appointed Thursday, the 25th November inst. to be observed as a day of public thanksgiving throughout the State.

We expect it will be more generally observed than usual this year. The democrats have abundant reason to be thankful for the glorious triumph of correct principles in the late election; and the whigs as they become cool, and are enabled to view their candidate in his proper light, will have still more cause for thankfulness that the country has escaped the evils that such an administration as Gen. Scott's would have been, must inevitably have inflicted upon it.

Secretary of State.—The President has appointed Hon. Edward Everett, of Massachusetts, Secretary of State, in place of Hon. Daniel Webster.

☞ We hope now the elections are over, and the mails relieved from the great burthen of whig documents under which they have groaned for some months past, that the postmasters will be enabled and feel willing to forward our exchange papers a little more punctually. During the past month we have missed a great many of our best papers.—Copies of two of Dickens's works, directed to us, are also detained in some post office between here and Philadelphia. We would feel obliged if the postmaster in whose possession they are would forward them—as soon as he reads them through. We should like to have an opportunity of reading them ourselves; and inasmuch as we have paid for them, and the postage was paid in advance, we look upon our request as quite reasonable. Will he so far accommodate us?

☞ The election being now over, we shall be enabled to dispense with politics, and give our readers a greater variety of interesting news and miscellaneous reading. We have no doubt they will be as much pleased with the change as we are.

History of Democracy in the United States—We have received the second number of this valuable work. The third number will not be be issued until January, after which it will appear on the 1st of each month, until the series is completed. We sincerely trust this work will receive the support to which it is entitled by its superior merits. It is conducted by a gentleman of eminent ability, and those who wish to obtain an intelligent understanding of the rise and progress of Democracy in this country, from the earliest period of its history, can do so by purchasing the numbers as they are issued.

It will be comprised in 30 numbers, at 25 cents each; but 10 numbers will be sent for a remittance of $2 00. The work is handsomely printed, and embellished by portraits of distinguished statesmen, got up in the very first style of art. It will make a splendid and valuable book. THE COUNTRY SAFE!

PIERCE ELECTED!

Yesterday was a proud day for the democracy. They turned out in their might, and defeated whiggery, horse, foot and dragoons.

Allen County nobly maintains her proud position.

Whitley County is reported 70 for Pierce. Wells County 250.

We have received sufficient returns by telegraph to ensure Pierce's election, by an overwhelming majority.

NEW YORK is safe. The city gives Pierce 12,000 majority. Buffalo 348; Rochester 300; the majority in the state will be tremendous.

PENNSYLVANIA is all democratic. Philadelphia 3,000; Old Lancaster (the strong hold of whiggery) 400 for Pierce—there is scarcely a grease spot left of whiggery in the Old Keystone.

Detroit, 650 for Pierce.
Chicago, 1000 do.
Michigan and Illinois have both gone largely democratic.

NOVEMBER 5.

New York 15,000 for Pierce; Ohio 20,000. Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut, New Jersey, Virginia, Maryland, Indiana, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin by large majorities.

For Scott—Massachusetts, Kentucky, Vermont, and probably Tennessee.

Scott can't get over 5 or 6 states

Later and Better!

By the telegraph this morning we learn that Kentucky gives Pierce 2,000 majority.
North Carolina 6,000.
Iowa about 5,000.
New Jersey 5 to 6,000,

ALL FOR PIERCE!!

DE KALB COUNTY.

Auburn, Nov. 4, 1852.

Dear Sir,—The election has passed off rather quietly in this County, but the result shows that the Democracy have gained a complete victory. The official returns from all the townships in the County show that

Pierce received	780	Increase	96
Scott "	391	"	5
Hale "	164	"	68

Dawson run 6 behind his party in Union Township, 5 in Concord (his own township,) and 1 in Jackson. This is bringing hundreds to his party with a vengeance.

Concord Tp., gave the largest majority, 80, about its usual majority; but Franklin did the best comparatively; it gave Wright 32 maj., and Pierce 57 over Scott, and 35 over Scott and Hale. The usual majority in this Township has been from 15 to 25.

Wells county, gives Pierce 295 maj.

We have not received returns from many counties in this State. We should judge it has given Pierce about 15,000 maj.

St. Louis goes 4,708 for Pierce. Baltimore 1,500.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Returns from one-fourth of the State, show again of 2,000 for Pierce over the vote of March last. He will have from 13,000 to 15,000 over Scott, and 8,000 to 10,000 over all.

RHODE ISLAND is reported for Pierce!—We can scarcely believe it. It may be true nevertheless.

The accounts from MASSACHUSETTS are conflicting. Some reports give it to Scott, and some to Pierce. Boston gives a Pierce majority of 495. If both Massachusetts and Rhode Island have gone for Pierce, what states can Scott have got? We suppose he has Vermont, but we do not know any other State that he is certain of. He is emphatically a "used up man"—worse beat than Van Buren was in 1840—the worst beat man that ever attempted to run for the Presidency.

Foreign News.

FRANCE.—A decree had been issued in France convoking the Senate for 4th Nov.

Abdel Kader the Arab Chief has been liberated and is to receive a pension from the French Government.

The reduction of the army and mitnistry is still talked of.

The Sultan of Turkey has refused to ratify the Turkish loan. A change has occurred in the Turkish Cabinet, which is now quite Austrian and Russian in its character.

M. De Pesigny has resigned as minister of the Interior of France. It is said that he will be appointed to high post in the Imperial household.

The funeral services of Wellington were celebrated at Verona on the 12th.

After the deliberations of the Senate the form of government will be changed.

The result will be submitted to the people and the Legislative body will be appointed to ascertain and decide the result.

The entry of Louis Napoleon, into Paris on the 16th, was celebrated with great Eclat. The Paris correspondent to the Globe, says Louis Napoleon's marriage with the Princess Vasa is a settled fact, and will be solemized previous to his coronation.

ENGLAND.—Parliament was postponed to the 4th of November.

The funeral of Wellington will take place on the 17th Nov.

ITALY.—By decree dated 16th, vessels from the U. S., are subject for the present to a quarantine of observation at Leghorn of 6 days.

The late political execution at Linigalnia will be followed up with similar butcheries at Urbaro and Ancona.

The Franklin Expidition---Open Water in Wellington Channel!

The safe return of Lady Franklin's private expidition, the Prince Albert, with the glorious news of water up the Wellington Channel, which was supposed by some to be forever blocked with a barrier of ice, is a matter of no small moment to those who are deeply interested in the subject, and to Capt. Penny it must indeed be a source of the highest satisfaction.

It will be remembered that it was his "conviction that Sir John Franklin had gone through the straight leading northwest out of Wellington channel, (which for the present he named Queen Victoria Channel,) and that he had gone off in "clear water, and was beyond their reach.

That this will now prove to be the case there seems to be a most reasonable prospect, as Sir Edward Belcher, and that gallant young officer Lieut. Sherard Osborne, have proceeded in "clear water" into the Queen's Channel, with the Assistance and Pioneer, steam tenders.

That they may have passed out of the Queen's Channel, and through Penny Strait to the northwestward, is more than probable. If so, we may fairly hope that before they house for the winter, they will have come upon the seond winter-quarters of Sir John Franklin.

We cannot expect to hear any further tidings from Sir Edward Belcher's squadron till this time next year, unless, indeed, his passage through the Queen's Channel and Penny Strait was unobstructed, and he should have come upon further important traces of such moment as to induce him to detach a party to the North Star, and thus, with the Mary yacht, to endeavor to communicate with the whalers in the west waters. This is only an idea that occurs to us as possible, and no more.

Our next Arctic news will probably be from Behring Straits in December, when the frigate which has gone up with supplies for the Plover may be expected to have returned with despatches; and we anxiously await the intelligence we may hope to receive from Capt. Maguire and Capt. Moore, who are coming home by her, as we have little doubt Capt. Collinson will have left some notice of his proceedings at Point Barrow, which we hope will have been visited this summer.

Arrangement of the Cuban Difficulty.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31st.

The Pycayune learn that the New York, via Havana, arrived at Mobile this evening in 48 hours from Havana.

The U. S. steamer Powhattan from New York having on board Judge Conklin, the newly appointed Minister to Mexico, had arrived at Havana. After his arrival had an interview with the Capt. General in relation to the recent troubles between the two Governments, when the difficulties were so arranged that the Crescent City would be allowed to land her mail and passengers, but Mr. Smith the purser would not be permitted to come ashore. The Captain General had also acknowledged to Commodore Newton of the Powhattan that he had acted too hastily and was willing to make a suitable apology.

Monstrous and Shameful Conduct of the Whig Administration.—It seems that the Fillmore Administration has dismissed Lieut. Porter, a son of Commodore Porter, from the Crescent City, and ordered him to report in person to the Department at Washington, to give an account of his proceedings at Havana. The removal of Lieut. Porter from the Crescent City was done, it is understood, at the instance of the Spanish Minister.

The noble and manly protest of Lieutenant Porter to the Spanish authorities in Cuba, in defence of his rights, in defence of the honor of the insulted flag of his country, does not meet the approbation of Mr. Fillmore and his Cabinet! This bastardly conduct of the whig administration will meet with a storm of rebuke from one end of the country to the other. The craven spirit manifested by the whig Cabinet in this case it but another reason for the people to rise in their might and hurl them from the power.

This order, at the instance of President Fillmore, comes from John P. Kennedy, the Secretary of the Navy, the basest of the slanderers of Mr. Jefferson. Such a man is a fitting instrument to do the work of such an Administration.—Ohio Statesman.

POETRY.

From the Ohio Statesman.

Calhoun, Clay, and Webster.

BY ROSS. H. THOMPSON.

The heart of a nation is stricken with grief,
The eyes of a people are moistened with tears;
For WEBSTER, the Statesman, now gone to his rest,
Covered with honors, with virtues, and years.

From the fair Sunny South came a moaning wail,
When the first of THE TRIO was called to the tomb,
CLAY and WEBSTER have followed Carolina's great son,
And the Union is clothed in deep sorrow and gloom.

Those Stars which shone brightest in councils of State,
From which lesser stars caught their own brilliant light,
Are obscured by the hand of infallible Death,
But shine on in glory, though lost to our sight.

Their bodies are dead, but their spirits still live,
Earth lost her bright jewels—Heaven claimed the rich prize,
Sent Angels as escort to bear them away,
In triumph to mansions of bliss in the skies.

These great ones are gone, the first of our race,
Their mantles have fallen—on whom will they rest?
For surely none living has won the proud fame,
Of the Star of the South, the East, or the West.

Then You'll Remember Me.

WORDS BY DANIEL WEBSTER, ESQ., TO MISS COLUMBIA.

When other nominees declare,
The patriot love they feel;
And blow their trumpets everywhere
And wave their glistening steel;
There may perchance at such a time
Some recollection be,
Of statesmanship no less sublime—
And you'll remember me.

When swords and plumes no more delight,
The heart they won in haste,
When plates of soup, and candy sticks,
Have ceased to please your taste:
When epaulettes no longer tempt,
In smiles they've won from thee:
At such a moment, I but trust,
That you'll remember me.

Burial of Daniel Webster.

The funeral ceremonies took place at Marshfield on Friday last and were attended by an immense concourse, the number of persons present being estimated at from six to seven thousand. Everything was of the most imposing character, and all felt deeply the sadden ing influence which the presence of the great dead inspired. The corpse lay in the open air beneath a majestic tree in front of the mansion, exposed at full length.

The funeral discourse was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Allen, Mr. Webster's pastor, at half past twelve, and was very touching. After its conclusion, the procession was formed, for the purpose of accompanying the corpse to the grave. The pall bearers were six old farmers of Marshfield, in their plain and simple attire. The corpse, which was drawn by black horses, was followed to the tomb by Fletcher Webster and his children, Hon. Abbott Lawrence, Rufus Choate, Edward Everett, Gen Franklin Pierce, Geo. Ashman, George Davis, Chief Justice Jones, Ex-Gov. Marcy, the domestics of the family, and citizens and strangers.

The procession was a most solemn and mournful demonstration of respect and regard. It arrived at the tomb about 1 o'clock. Here the immense concourse collected, and the coffin was again opened, to allow those who had just arrived in the steamer, to take a last look at the remains.

The corpse was finally committed to its kindred dust at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Webster did not visit the grave.

It is estimated that there were 50,000 strangers in Boston, drawn thither by the funeral solemnities.

The Irish Exodus.

From all quarters (says a late Dublin paper) the cry is still the same. The population is flying by the wholesale, and unless some unforseen obstacle interpose, the next census will show a more startling result with respect to the decrease of the old race than the official return of 1851. The Clare Journal thus thorns over the exodus of the people:

"All parishes among us are seemingly turning their faces to the far West—the home beyond the deep. Old, middle-aged, and young are on the move, leaving the old country, where there seems to be no hope for the young, where hope is building with the certainty, in their imagination, of bearing good fruit. It is really distressing contemplate the changes that a few years will effect in Old Ireland if the desire for leaving that now agitates the people shall continue. Before this period of the year until the present all idea for leaveing for America was deferred until "spring returned again." The season for emigration closed at the beginning of our harvest, and the people never thought of facing the wintery blast before the coming spring; but now spring, summer, and autumn are alike. The streets are daily crowded by families on the move. It seems to them as if they had only to travel a hundred miles, instead of thousands. And why is this? There is now one great inducement in addition to that which before induced them, and that is, their people are there before them. The old remembered faces that disappeared a few months since are waiting, with the blush of hope, to assist them to leap ashore on the land of their adoption, and to sleep once more udder the same roof with son or daughter that they hoped to see on this side of the grave. This is now a great cause for the long continued stream of emigration. Yesterday, nearly the entire day, the street was crowded with cars waiting for families to complete their arrangements with the emigration agent. They are gone, and the numbers are sufficient to leave a blank in the parish where they resided that will not be easily filled."

Suspicion and Fear in France.

The able and intelligent correspondent of the London Leader collects certain facts which would go to prove that France is anything but satisfied with the project of the Empire. He writes:

The attitude of the population begins to cause some uneasiness to Bonaparte and his adherents. All the rigorous measures of December are resumed. In every department persons confined to certain districts (internes) are suddenly torn from their houses and deposited on the frontier, if not transported to Algeria. Fresh arrests are taking place in Paris and in the provinces. A number of workmen, suspected of more than commonly ardent republicanism, are driven out of Paris. Numerous domiciliary visits take place in the towns and villages. We are living under the loides suspects of 1793. The other day the house of Philes was absolutely besieged, because it was known that Aristide Philes, the ex-representative, had taken refuge there. He had been condemned to transportation, and had made his escape from the prison of Foix.

The Prefect of Vaucluse, in concert with the Procurnor de la Republique, surprised Tarascon in the dead of night, at the head of a whole force of gendarmerie, in the department and surrounded the town. They proceeded to search every house were thus broken into in succession. The minuest researches, prolonged for several hours, led to no result.

The press is still the object of continual persecutions. The Siele has been condemned to a thousand francs fine, and a year's imprisonment. No one knows for what article, deserving so severe a sentence. M. Louis Jourdan, the editor of the Siecle, affected by this penalty, is a man known for his extreme reserve and singular moderation. His condemnation has produced a most unfavorable impression.

The Censorship is not less active. A new piece called Richard tha Third, was in preparation at the Porte St. Martin, in which the words tyront and usurper occurred more than once. All the passages were expunged. What a pity it is that the censors cannot suppress history! History is guilty of a thousand other allusions equally criminal. Even in Switzerland, Bonaparte has forbidden the publication of Victor Hugo's brochure, on the pretext of insults against a friendly government.

The elections in Paris are over. The government candidates (two highly respectable merchants) were returnad by an insignificant majority. One half the electors abstained altogether from voting; the votes of the other half were about equally divided between the government and the opposition. One of the electors had written upon his ticket this formidable threat: "If Bonaparte makes himself Emperor, I take my solemn oath to kill him.

Another electoral fact, equally insignificant, was noticed in the Department of the He et Vilaine, at Hubignac, in the communal elections. Not a single elector presented himself during the two days the ballot was open. The official bureau, finding that no voters came forward, also declined to vote, and went away, leaving the ballot-boxes empty. This is a fact unexampled in the history of elections. The garrison of the Var has been doubled. The frequent communications between the Var and the French refugees in Piedmont, made Bonaparte tear an evasion of that department of the Gironde, a number of depots of arms and gunpowder have been discovered. Everywhere, in fact, there are signs of agitation.

Horrible Murders near Troy, Ind.—The following letter from the postmaster at Troy, Perry co., gives the particulars of several of the most horrible murders which it has ever fallen to our lot to record.

TROY, Perry co., Ind., Oct 23, '52.

GENTLEMEN:—On last Friday night, several flat boats anchored in the river about three miles below this place on account of fog. On Saturday morning it was noticed that they all left except one, which remained at anchor. A man from the Indiana shore passing near in a skiff and seeing one man, asked him why the boat remained. He said "the crew had gone down to sound the channel." The boat remained there during Saturday, Sunday, and until yesterday evening, when persons living on the shore, not having seen any one else aboard, concluded to go and see what was the matter. They found no one on the boat, and the cabin floor spotted with blood; the bedding was examined and found to be saturated with blood also; a hatchet and spade had both blood and hair on them, as if they had cleft the skull of some one; three trunks had been broken open and rifled. They next obtained some iron hooks and dragged the river, when they succeeded in drawing up the bodies of three men, who had been murdered.—Each of their heads had been split open—literally chopped to pieces. One had been sunk by a large beam belonging to a pair of scales, another by the weights of the same, and the other by an iron pot, which were tied to them severally.

They were without coats, hats, or shoes, showing that they must have been murdered in sleep. A coroner's inquest is now holding over their bodies.

The boat is laden with flour, whisky, candles, brandies, &c., and it is supposed was fitted out at Cincinnati. From some papers found on board it appears the owners' names were Miller and Gardner.

So far there is no clue to the mystery.—Another boat passed by this morning. The men on it said they had been in company with the same boat above this place, and that there were seven men on it then.

From the Wabash Gazette.

The Escape.

At the late term of the Wabash Circuit Court, Henry Harden, was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to the State's Prison for ten years. Being a married man, on Sabbath evening last, his wife came over to town, bringing with her two little children, one an infant, the other a little boy four or five years of age; and through the gallantry of our good sheriff, she was permitted to remain during the night in the jail with her husband.

Early on Monday morning as usual, the sheriff went to the jail for the purpose of taking the prisoner his breakfast; when on opening the outer door, he was met with the sound of loud sobbings from within the cell in which were the unfortunate victim of crime, his wife and little ones. These evidences of distress, the sheriff very naturally supposed were induced by the thought of the misfortune which had befallen the family, and the consequent long separation which was about to take place, between husband and wife, parent and children. The cell was soon opened, the short, thick muzzled sob became more frequent and mournful—Ben's kind heart pitied—his bosom heaved a heavy sigh, whilst the unanswerable tear, proved how sincere was his sympathy for the afflicted ones before him, as they sat in the dark gloom of that iron cell, its melancholy silence being broken, only by the sorrowful groans of its unfortunate inmates. In a moment, as if the reluctant heart was being rent in twain, might be seen the receding form of the disconsolate wife, her face veiled, and her large, dark streaming eyes, covered with the broad proportions of a huge bandana, as she slowly and doubtfully moved to the door, which was to be closed between her, and her comfortless and heart stricken husband.—With the convulsive grasp of an afflicted and agonizing heart, she clasped to her bleeding bosom the now fatherless infant, which was clinging fondly to a mother's neck, as she passed that fatal threshold. She is gone! and following her with a long sympathizing look of compassion, our kind hearted sheriff sighed, "God bless you!"

The painful separation had now taken place. At the feet of the sheriff sat the afflicted husband and father, mourning as one who would not be comforted, refusing even the food which had been kindly provided for him, such was his grief.

In this condition he was left by the sheriff, who thoughtfully closed the door of the prison, and passed on to his quiet and pleasant home, where on filling himself surrounded with his own happy wife and children, commenced relating the melancholy occurrence, which he had just witnessed. All eyes and ears were attention, and each heart filled with sympathy, at the tale of distress which was then being related. At this moment, the conversation was interrupted by a loud rap on the door, when, on being bade to come in, a messenger hurriedly entered, and announced that Harden had escaped from jail, and had just been seen wending his way through a corn field, just below our beautiful village, with all the velocity of human speed, superinduced by that feeling of desperation which ever impels the fleeing criminal. In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, the astonishing truth broke in upon the sheriff's mind, that a trick had been played off upon him, and he, whom he had mistaken for the heart broken wife, was no other than the criminal in disguise, who with her, had disguised themselves to effect his escape from the prison. In the fury of his anger, at thus having been deceived, the sheriff seized the keys, hurried to the jail, rushed into the cell, seized the prisoner by the arm, and with much emphasis exclaimed, "I want to know who you are" when, with a courtesy, a quizzing look, and a bewitching smile of triumph, Mrs. Harden, dressed in her husband's apparel, whispered in his ear, why yes! its me. We shall not attempt to describe the feelings of our sheriff as he there stood motionless as a statue of marble, with his fair prisoner before him, looking a sweet look of triumph, sufficiently bewitching to tempt a kiss from the most obdurate old bachelor, that ever hardened his heart and stiffened his neck against the captivating charms and sweet graces of the female gender—suffice it to say, that Harden made good his escape, and has not been heard of since he crossed the Wabash river just below town.

On Monday evening his wife was released from her voluntary imprisonment, and ere this perhaps, she has gone to join her husband in some remote region of country, there to enjoy the fruits of an occurrence which savors more of romance than of reality. The foregoing facts we had from the sheriff himself, and may be relied upon as strictly true in every material part. There is not the least suspicion of fault resting upon him in the matter. He was deceived by a trick as artfully contrived, and skilfully executed, as was ever played off on mortal man.

ACCIDENT.—We are indebted to the kindness of Capt. Van Swarttouw, of Adams & Co's Express, for the following description of a fearful accident which occurred on the Portage railroad, near Pittsburgh, on Sunday morning, at Plane No. 8. It appears that as Adams & Co's Express car was ascending the plane, the chain by which it was being pulled up became loosened, having been improperly fastened, and the car dashed with tremendous velocity to the bottom of the plane. The car was within ten yards of the top of the plane when the chain gave way; immediately after it had started, Capt. Van Swarttouw leaped out, and by that means saved his life. The car having reached the bottom, came in collision with the baggage and passenger cars, completely demolishing them. Warning had been given to the passengers, and consequently they all succeeded in getting out safely, except those in the third passenger car, who were mostly ladies. The engineer on the locomotive, which had pushed instead of pulling the cars, reversed his engines, and proceeded in the direction of Plane No. 9. Becoming alarmed, he jumped off, and the locomotive and passenger car dashed along the level to the descending plane. The car providentially became unfastened, and the locomotive alone flew down the plane, and was dashed to pieces.

Adams & Co's car contained a very valuable lot of freight, having two safes in it, containing a large amount of money. Four merino sheep were killed, which were valued at $1600 by the owner; and everything in and about the car more or less injured.

The baggage master succeeded in jumping off in time to escape the collision between the baggage and express car. Capt. Van Swarttouw is confined to his bed, the injuries he received being very severe. Only one passenger was injured, his ancle having been broken.

Eruption of Mount Etna.—The published accounts from Catania, as to the course of the lava, reach to the 7th September. Zaffarana, which appears to have been in such a great peril, it is now hoped may escape.

We find the following graphic account of the lava in a letter dated Catania, Aug. 30:—

"Yesterday, after breakfast, we reached Zaffarana; from the last house in the village we saw the lava at gunshot distance, and at that distance the heat was very great.

"The manner in which the extraordinary and frightful torrent advanced is not to be described—it must be seen. It moves slowly and uninterruptedly; the first waves, if I may so express myself, rise and fall at the least obstacle they encounter; then send forth streamlets here and there, recede, extend themselves and again advance. Now it is heard as a continued sound of glass breaking in the fire, nothing more, and now immense damage succeeds. Every now and then it is arrested, denoting the presence of greater obstacles or of water.

"By day all this grand mass presents an appearance between red and yellow, sometimes dull, sometimes brighter. I can ill describe the spectacle by night; that dull stream of fire, those clouds of ashes and sulphureous vapors are beyond description, and sublimely horrible.

"The streams of lava are much higher than the surrounding land, for as the former lands have become solid, the new lava flows over them.

"In truth, nothing can be more picturesque, could we divest ourselves of the feeling of misery and grief which pervades this hapless region.

"The lava flows over the richest and most cultivated part of the country, destroying vineyards, all sort of fruit trees, and some houses. Conceive the misery that has fallen on many proprietors and colonists.

"Since writing the above, we have accounts from Catania to the 24th September, up to which date the erupt on continued, but without having destroyed any village through rich vineyards, woods, &c., have been devastated."

Texas.—By an arrival from Galveston, we have dates from Texas to the 8th inst., inclusive.

The Western Texan gives an account of a fight between a party of Indians and a scout of the United States Rifles, under Lieutenant Frost. The Indians were completely routed, though it is not certain that any were killed. All their camp utensils were captured, together with a number of stolen horses. In their camp was found the mail from Corpus Christi to Laredo, which led to the belief that the mail rider had been murdered by them.

The rumor that gold exists on the head waters of the Brazos, has, says the Houston Telegraph, of the 8th inst., been fully confirmed by the recent exploration of Capt. Marcy.—It is added that the geologist of the expedition has deposited at the Department at Washington, several specimens of pure gold, which were found near the Wichita mountains.

A Feat.—It is stated by the foreign papers that a Spaniard named Antoine Molas, of a Spanish frontier town, has made an ascent in a small balloon without any car except a small table, on which he lay down like a boy on a sled. Upon his legs were two umbrellas, acting freely upon their sticks, and in each hand was a set of silken screens, opening with hinges and expanding or contracting at will.—A rope, attached around his neck, communicated with the valve of the balloon, and around his body was a belt containing six or seven pounds of shot for ballast. Upon cutting himself loose from the earth, the balloon rose gently some two hundred feet, the atmosphere being perfectly calm. The æronant then commenced a motion very much resembling swimming, and the balloon began to fall off with considerable rapidity, the speed increasing as the machinery of impulse began to work more freely. He went five miles in a straight line and then returned, performing the whole ten miles in twenty-nine minutes.

Fate of Mr. Freaner.—The brave and talented Col. Freaner, whose letters, under the signature of "Mustang," were so justly admired during the Mexican war, has fallen a victim to savage barbarity near the Southern boundary of Oregon. He started for the Shasta country in company with four or five others, some five weeks ago, for the purpose of attending the Democratic State Convention, since which time the party has not been heard from, although the animal he rode has strayed into one of the settlements. An Indian squaw, who has fallen into the hands of Americans, reports that a party of men bearing the description of Freaner's, were murdered by the Pitt River Indians, and the report is in all probability correct. Freaner, Tobin, Peoples—three men who gained literary distinction in the Mexican war—all find an early grave in California.

Only twenty miles of the Lake Shore Railroad, remains to be finished between Cleveland and Erie. This will be done in a short time, when the unpleasant and often dangerous passage of the Lake at this season will be dispensed with.

Letter from the President to the Head of Departments, relative to the Death of Daniel Webster.

The President of the United States has addressed the following letter to the Heads of the Department, regarding the decease of their lamented associate, Daniel Webster:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington, Oct. 25th, '52.

GENTLEMEN:—The painful intelligence received yesterday, enforces upon me the sad duty of announcing to the Executive Departments the death of the Secretary of State.—Daniel Webster died at Marshfield, Mass., on Sunday, the 24th October, between the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning. While this irreparable loss brings its natural sorrow to every American heart, it will be heard far beyond our borders with mournful respect wherever civilization has nurtured men, who find in transcendent intellect and faithful patriotic services a theme of praise.

It will visit with still more poignant emotions his colleagues in the administration; with whom his relations have been so intimate and cordial. The fame of our illustrious statesman belongs to his country—the admiration of it to the world. The record of his wisdom will inform future generations, no less than its utterance has enlightened the present.

He has bequeathed to posterity the richest fruits of the experience and judgment of a great mind conversant with the greatest national concern. In these his memory will endure as long as our country shall continue to be the home and guardian of free men.

The people will share with the Executive Department in common grief which bewails his departure from amongst us. In the expression of individual regret at this afflicting event, the Executive Departments of the Government will be careful to manifest every observance of honor which custom has established as appropriate to the memory of one so eminent as a public functionary, and so distinguished as a citizen.

The Acting Secretary of State will communicate the intelligence to the diplomatic corps near this Government, and through our Minister abroad to foreign Governments.

The Cabinet are requested, as a further testimony of respect of the deceased, to wear the usual badges of mourning for thirty days.

I am, gentlemen, your obd't. serv't.

MILLARD FILLMORE.

To the Acting Secretary of State, and to the Secretaries of Treasury, Interior, War, Navy, and the Attorney General and Postmaster General.

A letter from California says: A man from Illinois has just arrived from Independence having driven the entire distance two thousand turkeys, all hale and hearty. They cost him about fifty cents apiece id the States, and the cost of feeding them on the way was nothing: they feed themselves. He has been offered eight dollars apiece.

PETROLEUM, or Rock Oil

A Natural Remedy! Procured from a Well in Alleghany county, Pa., 400 feet below the Earth's Surface! Put up and Sold by

SAMUEL M. KIER,

Canal Basin, Seventh Street, Pittsburgh, Penn.

The healthful balm from Nature's secret spring,
The bloom of health, and life, to man will bring;
As from her depths the magic liquid flows,
To calm our sufferings, and assuage our woes.

PETROLEUM.—It is necessary, upon the introduction of a new medicine, to the notice of the public, that something shall be said in relation to its powers, in healing disease, and the manner in which it acts. Man's organization is a complicated one; and to understand the functions of even one, requires the study of years. But to understand that certain remedies produce certain impressions upon these organs may be learned by experience in a short time. It is by observation in watching the effects of various medicines, that we are enabled to increase the number of curative agents, and we could have discovered a new medicine and attested its merits it is our duty to bring it before the public, so that the benefits to be derived from it, may be more generally diffused it have no right to hold back a remedy whose powers are calculated to remove pain, and to alleviate human suffering and disease.

The Petroleum has been fully Tested!

Almost one year and a half ago it was placed before the public as a remedy of wonderful efficacy. Every one not acquainted with its virtues, doubted its healing properties. The cry of humbug was raised against it. It had some friends. Those that were cured through its wonderful agency. These spoke a word in favor. They, have through its instrumentality, were enabled to walk—the blind to see. Those who had suffered for years under the torturing pains of Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia, were restored to health and usefulness. Several who were blind have been made to see. In writing about a medicine we are aware that we should write truth—that we should make no statements that cannot be proved. We have the witnesses—crowds of them, who will testify in terms stronger than we can write them, to the efficacy of this Remedy, who will testify but the Petroleum has done for them what no medicine ever could before—cases that were pronounced hopeless and beyond the reach of remediate means—cases abandoned by Physicians of unquestioned ability, have been made to exclaim "This is the

MOST WONDERFUL REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED!"

We will lay before you the certificates of some of the most remarkable cases: (see circular with the oil) to give them all, would require more space than would be allowed by this notice. Since the introduction of the Petroleum, about one year and a half ago, many Physician have been convinced of its efficiency, and now recommend it in their practice.—If the Physicians do not recommend it, the people will have it of themselves—for its transcendant power to heal, will and must become known and appreciated—when the voices of the cured speak out: when the cures themselves, stand out in bold relief, and when he who for years has suffered with the tortures and pangs of an immedicable lot a that has been shortening his days and darkening him "to the grave hours appointed for all the living," when he speaks out in the praises, we will doubt it? The Petroleum is a Natural Remedy—It is put up as it flows from the bosom of the earth, without any thing being added to or taken from it.

It gets its ingredients from the bed of salt-stones which it passes over in its secret channel. They are blended together in such a form as to defy all human competition. The Petroleum in this respect is like MINERAL WATERS, whose virtues in most chronic diseases, are acknowledged, not only by Physicians, but by the community at large. These singular fluids flowing out from the earth, impregnated with medicinal substances of different proprieties, and holding them in such complete solution as to require the aid of Chemistry in order to detect them, bears ample proof to the fact, that No one compounded by the master hand of Nature, for the alleviation of human suffering and disease. It is a natural remedy; and as Nature never half does her work, it is a medicine of unequalled Power, as we have the most abundant testimony. That it will cure every disease to which we are liable we do not pretend,—but when used according to directions, it will cure or materially relieve—Diarrhoea, Dysentery Piles, Rheumatism, Goat, Neuralgia, Scrofula, Mumps, Toothache, Eruptions on the skin Pimples on the face, Chronic Sore Eyes, Ringworm Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pains in the bones and joints, old Sores, Ulcers, Worms, Ague, Erysipelas, Chronic Cough, Asthma, Bronchites, and pulmonary affections of Chronic nature tending to produce Consumption.

Burns and Scalds Diseases of Bladder and Kidneys, Chapped Hands, Excoriated Nipples, Corns and Bunions.

Hartford Life and Health Insurance Company.

OFFICE POST OFFICE BUILDING, HARTFORD, CT.

Capital & Surplus over $200,000.

During Two Years' Business Issued nearly 4,000 Policies.

NO HEALTH RISKS TAKEN BY THE COMPANY.

THE Hartford Life and Health Insurance Company take risks on Life, grant or purchase annuities, confer endowments, and make contracts upon and appertaining to deferred and reversionary interests connected with life risks, agreeably to the powers and privilege conferred by the charter.

The business of the Company is conducted upon the Joint Stock and Mutual plan, at the option of the insured, thus meeting the wants and circumstances of the public more fully, it is believed, than purely Mutual Companies can do.

Annuities will be granted or purchased, and endowments conferred on terms highly favorable, and according to the rates of the most liberal and well conducted Companies in this country and in England.

The Charter of this Company provides that the wife may insure the life of her husband, and the amount to be paid be secure from creditors at this death.

An equitable sum will always be paid for policies surrendered to the company before they expire.

Travelling, sea, and foreign residence permits will be granted at a small extra premium.

Policies on lives of persons going to California will be granted on the Joint Stock principle only, and at an extra rate of premium.

Extract from the Certificate of the Comptroller of the state of Connecticut, dated—

January 7th, 1851.

"The great success and prudent management of this company, together with its well invested capital and surplus, entitle it to the entire confidence of the community, and I recommend it, as my opinion equalin strength and ability to the best institutions of the kind in the Union." (Signed,)

THE "GREAT" Indiana Land Agency

OUR BOUNDS!

THE undersigned has been appointed an agent to sell all the lands in Northern Indiana owned by the Kingscawn and Shelbyville Railroad Company"

As this company is successfully opperating on the High pressure system on their road, they have resolved to put their lands on the Low; and have authorized sales to be made at Two dollars per acre, on five years credit; thus giving every one a rare chance to own a farm.

Emigrants can be accommodated with four or five sections in one locality if desired.

The undersigned has also on sale large tracts of outer lands in this and adjoining counties; and is giving better bargains, and more of them, than is generally known; as he is entirely too modest to puff himself, and is not disposed to pay any one to do it for him F. P. RANDALL.

COLLEGE OF HEALTH

DR. G. C. VAUGHN'S

VEGETABLE LITHONTRIPTIC MIXTURE!

THIS celebrated remedy is constantly increasing its fame by the many cures it is making

ALL OVER THE WORLD.

It has now become the only medicine for family use, and is positively recommended for

DROPSY:

all stages of this complaint immediately relieved, no matter how long standing. See Pamphlet for Testimony. This disease is originated in Intemperance, and the sins and dissipations of the world, among the thousands of diseases which it is the cause of, there is none more dangerous than

DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS,

it prevents, as its name implies, the formation of stone, and will relieve in a few days. See pamphlet.

HITHERTO INCURABLE,

it positively is not, as thousands can testify, who have used it and pronounce it worth ten times its weight in gold. Let not the afflicted neglect a single moment, for delay is dangerous, which a trial will prove. Many have been given over by the faculty, and pronounced incurable, from the use of this remedy are now living monuments of its virtues. Some of its cures are truly astonishing. See pamphlet for testimony.

APPLICATION OF THE KNIFE,

in relieving the system and for the accumulated water thus taken away, ends in stone again, and may be said to be a temporary benefit, for the only sure and safe remedy is known, and is presented to suffering humanity in this Vegetable Lithontriptic Mixture, and in every instance, if they will give it a fair trial, and all diseases of the urinary organs; for these distressing complaints, it stands without any other medicine to compare with it. See pamphlet.

GRAVEL,

DEBILITY OF THE SYSTEM,

weak back, weakness of the Kidneys, &c., or inflammation of same, is immediately relieved by a few days' use of this medicine, and a cure soon effected as a result of its use. It stands in for such complaints, and also for derangement of the female system.

A CERTAIN REMEDY

IRREGULARITIES, SUPPRESSIONS,

and all menstruations. No article has ever been offered, except this, which would touch this kind of disease. Females in a state of pregnancy, in the nine and fifth month, should not use it, as it is sure and effectual in its operation, and if used as directed will give as proof of cures in this distressing class of complaints. See pamphlet. All broken down, debilitated constitutions, under the effect of mercury, will find life-giving power of this article to act immediately, and the poisonous mineral eradicated from the system.

A THOUSAND NAMES

The 22 distinct properties which compose this article, manufactured expressly in the application of the compound, pay the dispensing class of complaints which heretofore prevailed. For centuries there has been used in the south of Europe, a which in all diseases or derangements of the female frame, menstruations, obliquities, painful menstruations, &c., &c., effected a cure. This root is indigenous to our soil, and found in large quantities, and as a medicinal property, stands without an equal. It forms one of the compounds in the preparation, which, as a whole, is the most powerful curative in a debilitated female, it is sure, and the system will be restored to health for its use.

For the relief of all Sympathetic Diseases attendant on pregnancy it affords those distressing and painful troubles which often occur both in married and unmarried females, such as nausea, sickness, peculiar aversions which arise from taking cold, &c.

CONSUMPTION and LIVER COMPLAINT, Bilious Diseases, Inflammation of the Lungs, Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throats, Weakness, &c., for all these diseases no Medicine has ever been its equal.

CANCERS, FEVER SORES, SCROFULA,

SWELLED JOINTS, HARD TUMORS, and SPINAL AFFECTIONS this Medicine has and is curing the worst cases; let no one be afflicted with these complaints, or any other, but resort to the Vegetable Lithontriptic Mixture, as a cure and a certain relief from its use, there is no Medicine now before the world its equal. Call on Agents and get a Pamphlet.

FEVER AND AGUE.

To the Great West especially, and wherever these complaints prevail, this medicine is offered.

NO MINERAL AGENT,

no tenderness compounded in any part of this mixture, it cures these diseases with certainty and celerity, and does not waste the system torpid.

It is composed purely, and is purely a Vegetable Preparation, and for medicine in its composition which can in the least injure any person under any circumstances whatever. No ingredients or articles of the highest recommendation are published on the pamphlets, or in the directions accompanied.

PILES,

a complaint of a most painful character, is

IMMEDIATELY RELIEVED,

and a cure follows by a few days use of this article; it is for below any other preparation for this disease, as for any other loose or irritating form from ringworm itself. See pamphlet.

ERUPTIVE DISEASES

will find the digestive properties of this article

PURIFY THE BLOOD,

and drive such diseases from the system. See pamphlet for testimony of cures in all diseases, which the limits of an advertisement will not permit to be inserted here. Agents give them away; they contain 36 pages of certificates of high character and a stranger

ARRAY OF PROOF!

of the virtues of a medicine, never equalled. It is one of the peculiar features of this article that it never fails to perform any case, and from and muscle are left to build upon let the constitution and lingering invalid

HOPE ON,

and keep Taking the medicine as long as there is an improvement made. The pamphlet will

CAUTION THE PUBLIC

against a number of articles which come out under the head of

SARSAPARILLAS, SYRUPS, &c.,

as cures for Dropsy, Gravel, &c.; They are good for nothing, and conducted to gull the unwary;

TOUCH THEM NOT.

Their inventors never thought of curing such diseases till this article had done it. A particular study of the pamphlet is earnestly solicited.

Agents and all who sell the article are gratuitously. Put up in 30 oz. bottles, at $1; 12 oz. do. at 50 cts. each — the larger holdings of one more than two small bottles. Look out and not get imposed upon. Every bottle has "Vaughn's Vegetable Lithontriptic Mixture," blown upon the glass, the genuine signature of "G. C. Vaughn" on the directions, and "G. C. Vaughn, Buffalo," stamped on the cork. None other are genuine. Prepared by Dr. G. C. Vaughn, and sold at the Principal Office, 267 Main street, Buffalo, at wholesale and retail. No attention given to letters unless post paid — post paid letters, or verbal communications soliciting advice, promptly attended to, gratis.

GLAD TO CIRCULATE

A VIGOROUS LIFE,
Or a Premature Death.
Kinkelin on Self Preservation,
ONLY 25 CENTS.

This Book, just published, is filled with useful information on the infirmities and diseases of the Generative Organs. It addresses itself alike to YOUTH, MANHOOD and OLD AGE. No all who have imprudently or unfortunately fallen under the direct consequences of early or prolonged indiscretions—to all who feel the exhaustive effects of sedentary and household habits—to all who in a thirst for intemperance, or the violation of natural laws, find themselves debilitated, and of sapping and melancholy despondency, Dr. K. would say—

READ THIS BOOK.

The valuable advice and impressive warning it gives, at present years of misery and suffering, and save annually thousands of lives.

Parents by reading it, will be taught how to prevent the destruction of their children.

 A remittance of 25 cents, enclosed in a letter, addressed to DR. KINKELIN, N.W. corner of Third & Union streets, between Spruce & Pine, Philadelphia, will ensure a book, sent in a sealed envelope, per return of mail.

He also takes this method to inform those who have previously could be in his house as a gentleman, and confidentially apply himself as a physician.

LOVE AND MONEY.

BY GEO. CANNING HILL.

"WHAT are your views about matrimony, Charley?" asked the gay and gallant Tom Hunter, of his intimate companion Charley Dample, as he sat lounging in his office one warm summer's forenoon.

"My views?" exclaimed Dample, looking up from the big book he labored so hard to hold in his hand.

"Yes," answered Tom: you have them haven't you?"

"Yes; but upon what particular point?"

"Confound your lawyer like questions! Do you think, then, that a marriage except for money, is good for any thing at all?"

The youthful attorney hemmed, and acted as if trying to clear his throat preparatory to giving utterance to some important opinion in reply.

"In other words," interrupted and added Tom, "wouldn't you advise a fellow to marry, first of all, for money?"

"Ahem!" replied Charley Dample, "why—that is—no, I shouldn't."

"Well, what for, then?"

"Why, what else can a man marry for, except for love?"

"Love!" contemptuously reported Tom Hunter, "Love is all well enough, I own, in its place; but money is current every where. Love isn't love, if one is out of money. So what's the sense in talking this sort of sentimental stuff?"

The young lawyer preserved a silence, preferring to offer no further impediment to the free expression of his friend's singular opinions on the subject.

"Well, continued Tom. I'll tell you what I'm. I'm going to marry a fortune. I don't say, mind, that I marry only for the fortune; but it's a settled fact that I shall marry money or nothing!"

"Got your wife picked out?" asked Charley, looking up at his companion over the edge of his book.

"Did you ever hear of the young widow Wise?"

"Of the widow Wise?" rejoined Charley Dample. "Of course I have. Isn't she the belle of ——street?" Wasn't I but lately made happy in receiving a bow from her on the promenade? What are you thinking of? Of course I know her."

"Well—you cant imagine the rest," said Tom, winking slily.

"Ah, yes! I do—I do! you are after her?"

"Well—she isn't without money, I confess," replied Tom, quite sagely.

"And I wish you success in your chase—Thank you! Thank you truly!"

"And much enjoyment of your fortune, after you have got it," added the young lawyer.

"The fact is," said Tom, "I wouldn't have admitted to any one else what I have admitted to you, Charley: our friendship, you know, has long been intimate, and I feel at liberty to entrust you with a few of my more important secrets—as this."

"I hope I am able to feel them safely for you," replied his companion with an expression it would be difficult to characterize or define.

Somewhat less than a year after this short conversation, the two young men were once more sitting together. The countenance of the one appeared wreathed with smiles, while that of the other was shaded with a cloud. What that cloud was, was not very long in transpiring.

"Dample," said Tom Hunter, "you are my friend still?"

"I hope you account me such," was his ready reply.

"Yes I well, I must make you acquainted with a secret I guess you don't know."

"What is it?" inquired Dample, looking intently in his face.

"I have been some months married," said Tom.

"And so have I," rejoined his companion.

"I married for money," said Hunter.

"And you didn't miss your mark either," replied his friend Dample.

"Don't be too hasty! I beg you not to trust too much to appearances?"

"What! isn't your wife rich, then?"

"To be sure she is, but—

"But what, then, in the name of common sense?" asked Charley Dample hurriedly and anxiously.

"I'm no richer, though, for it?"

Dample bit his finger nails, and was silent.

"Perhaps you never dreamed of such a thing?" added Tom, interrogatively.

"No—no, I never did; explain to me. I am all in the dark about it."

"It's a secret you know—all between us?"

"Yes—yes?"

"I married for money, sure enough! If I'd married for love, there would have been some sense in it; I might then have come to with some certainty on what I was after."

All the time that he was speaking, his friend Dample kept his eyes riveted upon him, anxious to knock the mystery that enshrouded his matrimonial affairs.

"The fact is, Charley," continued he, "I'm actually tired of the scrape I find I've got into."

"What! not tired of your wife, Tom!" exclaimed the young attorney.

"Why, no; not exactly that—but something doesn't hitch to suit me. I don't know what or where it is."

Again Dample fell to gnawing his nails, and thinking briskly and silently.

"Why, perhaps you'll understand it better from a sample of my life," said Tom.

Dample listened more intently, if possible, than before.

"You see, to begin with since I was married, the old gentleman has cut me short of supplies. He gave me a sweal to start on, and then told me that I must look to myself and my wife for support in future. What he gave me has contrived to pay my board bills, and all such necessary trifles; but, to tell the truth, I have had to cut myself most unmercifully short on such articles as liquors, cigars, and so forth."

Dample gave loose to the influence of a good natured smile.

"You may smile, and laugh, if you choose, but you will find that it comes hard for me to do so! The fact is, Charley, I must either change my compass, or else burst up entirely!"

"What! and with a rich wife too!—That would look pretty, for a man like

"But I was going to tell you. I had tried all sorts of ways; he had my little, trifling bills sent home to her, in the hope that she would pay them: hinted to her, in every imaginable manner; and finally, I resolved to talk with her. I did so."

"I should have thought that to be the best way," interrupted the young lawyer.

"It might seem so, but dont think I make very much by it. Said'e, when I sat down, Nelly, I've got something on my mind that troubles me."

"Do rid yourself of it, Mr. Hunter," said she in a manner that was highly provoking.

"I'm out of money," I ventured to suggest.

"I'm very sorry for it," she coolly replied.

"But couldn't you—"

"Me! I do anything about money!" exclaimed she in a voice of well-feigned surprise.

"Yes, Nelly," said I, "couldn't you give the power to draw out your dividend at the bank, and sell your stock there when I thought I could make a good trade for you."

"Tom, my darling!" was all she would reply, "you know I'm above troubling myself about those money matters. I married only for love!" and with these words, she flung herself heavily, nut to say crushingly, upon my neck smothering me with kisses.

"I tried to extricate myself, but could not. When at length she eased herself to give me room to breath, she insisted on never hearing another word from me on the subject of money; for she says that love and love for money cannot well go together a great way and desires to live only off of my love! She wont hear a word about money matters."

"What a sweet creature you have married to be sure!" said Dample, tantalizingly.

"Don't, pray, tell me of it!" replied Tom. "I don't see but one way ahead from me, and that is—to go to work for myself! Nelly insists that we married only for love, and there is no more use in my speaking to her on the subject of money, than there would be in my expecting it to rain gold pieces for me!"

"But I didn't marry for money," said Dample.

"No, and you thereby married both love and money!" replied Tom, turning sorrowfully from him and hurrying out at the door.

Population of the United States.

PAST AND FUTURE.—Wm. Darby has communicated to the National Intelligencer, the following synopsis of the population of the United States, according to the several censuses taken, with the probable aggregate at each decenial numbering during the next century—viz:

Table I.—Population of the United States, as recorded in the Tabular view of the Seven Enumerations made by the Decennial Census, 1790 to 1850, inclusive.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—A few days ago, it is stated, a fireman, on the Georgia State Railroad was caught by the feet between the locomotive and tender and held fast in this position, his head hanging downwards, and his feet dreadfully crushed. Neither the conductor nor the passengers had the presence of mind to use proper exertions to relieve him, and the poor fellow in his agony entreated them to saw his legs off. Finally, this was actually done by some one, with a common hand saw, and the man was allowed to drop to the ground, bleeding to death. No effort was made to stop the hemorrhage, and the poor victim of this more than savage stupidity and barbarism soon bled to death. After the fireman was thus relieved from his position, a bar of iron was obtained, and the locomotive and tender pried apart, so that the feet were rescued and dropped out from between them!

THE THIEF CAUGHT.—Mr. Slack returned from Cincinnati on Friday evening last, bringing with him a man named William Rees, one of the individuals engaged in robbing the County Treasury a few weeks since. About $1,900 of the money—a Gold Watch, a span of horses and buggy, purchased with a portion of the money, have been recovered. Two other men were also engaged in the robbery, of whom nothing as yet been heard.

GOOD NATURE.—One cannot imagine any quality of the human mind whence greater advantages can arise to society than good nature, seeing that man is a social being not made for solitude but conversation. Good nature not only lessens the sorrows of life, but increases its comforts. It is more agreeable than beauty or even wit. It gives a pleasing expression to the countenance and infuses a multitude of the most amiable observations. It is, indeed, the origin of all society. Were it not for good nature, men could not exist together nor hold intercourse with one another.

The State Fair.

It is supposed that fifty thousand persons visited the Fair yesterday. The ground was thronged the whole day, and strangers were constantly arriving. The articles on exhibition are very numerous and varied, and, of course of the very best quality.

Among the cattle, the most numerous specimens are the thorough bred short horns, there being forty-eight entries of these alone. Prominent among these are the two cows and the yearling heifer of Mr. Hutchcraft, of Ky., and the bull "Earl of Scotsm" belonging to Mr. Dennis, the superintendent, which have heretofore been noticed in our paper. "Lucy," a white Durham, also from Wayne county, is a splendid animal, probably fully equal to the "Earl of Seaham." "Gold Coin," a son of "Oregon," and "Barron," belonging to Mr. Duncan, of Clarke county, Ky., are also very fine animals. Mr. Smith, of Hendricks county, and Mr. Denly, of Wayne, and several other persons whose names we could not learn, also exhibited some very fine short horns.

The most beautiful cattle on the ground, however, in our opinion, are the Devons—There are about a dozen of these, and they attract considerable attention. We believe they belong to Mr. Collins, of Hamilton co., and to Mr. Kenyon, of Wayne co.

A number of very fine oxen and steers are present. One steer is nearly six feet high, and is said to weigh nearly 2,000 lbs., although he is far from being fat. We did not learn who is his owner.

Mr. Dowding has a large number of Merino bucks, from New York. They are for sale, and are said by judges to be of a superior quality.

There are also a few Cotswold and Leicester sheep, which are fine animals.

A number of very large hogs are on exhibition, though the variety is not so great, nor the stock so good as might be looked for in a State which raises so much pork as Indiana does.

Next to the cattle, the horses make the best show. We found it, however, extremely difficult to learn anything about them, as, in very few instances, did we find any one at the stall who could give information concerning them.

Mr. Reeves, of Parke county, has a fine bay stallion—"Sir Archie Ranger," two years old; and "Baker Whip," belonging to M. Lavi Cook, of Hamilton county, is also a fine animal.

The poultry makes a considerable show.—Among the chicken are the "Poland," "Bantam," and "Shanghai" varieties; there are "Muscovy" and "Poland" ducks, wild geese, some huge turkies, and a few very beautiful pigeons and doves.

Mechanic's Hall contains a fine display of machinery and farming implements. Prominent among all are the scales from Dayton & Co.'s manufactory, at Rochester, N. Y.—There are any quantity of threshing machines, reapers, plows, corn planters, corn shellers, straw cutters, &c. &c. Among the reapers, we are inclined to give the palm to Dorsmore's self-raking reaper. Gatling's Wheat Drill receives considerable commendation.

There are some beautiful specimens of carriages and buggies. A buggie by Messrs. W. P. & A. Applegate, of Connersville, and a buggy by H. R. Gaston, of this city, are equal in workmanship, beauty of style, and finish to the best we ever saw anywhere.—Mr. Lippincott, of Richmond, and others, also exhibit some fine specimens of carriage architecture.

The Cincinnati Artists' Union exhibits a copy of Cole's "Voyage of Life," by Sarony, a western artist of great merit. These pictures are said, by competent judges, to be equal to the originals, and a view of them is well worth the price of admission. The series will be distributed at the next drawing of the Union, which will be in January next.

The same Union also exhibits two beautiful engravings—"In a Quandary," and the "Teachings of Nature." These engravings are to be given to every subscriber to the Union. They are each worth the subscription price—five dollars.

Manufacturer's Hall is always crowded, because it contains the "fancy work" and the "flowers"—what there are of them. The season however, is so far advanced that but few flowers and plants are on exhibition.—Among them are a beautiful bunch of roses, deposited by ——, two lemon trees, bearing fruit; some very fine dahlias; and a cactus and century plant, by Mrs. Ohr, of this city.

There are some beautiful specimens of needle-work on exhibition, by Miss Anne A. Jordan, Mrs. Wygant, and Miss Henderson, of this city, and Miss Cummins, of Madison; Miss Savitz, of Jeffersonville, contributes a lot of beautiful artificial flowers, accompanied by a very creditable letter to Gov. Wright.—Miss Redfield exhibits a beautiful specimen of crotchet work. But the most beautiful and elaborate specimens of needle work we ever saw are those deposited by Mrs. Charles worth, of Madison, and Miss Sallie Hendricks, of St. Mary's of the Woods. The "Washington," by this latter lady, resembles, at a short distance, a fine painting, and is altogether the most artistic needle work we ever saw. The lady unhesitatingly possesses considerable genius.

Among the most attractive articles in the Hall were the specimens of porcelain ware exhibited by Mr. Morris, of this city, and Messrs. Winchell, Phelps & Co., agents for the manufacturers. It is of American manufacture, the first that has ever been exhibited, we believe, in the West—at least the company at present manufacturing it is the first one to succeed in making good American porcelain. Their ware in every respect is much better than the foreign, and looks almost half as costly. During the day we frequently saw persons amusing themselves by striking fire with a piece of steel, from the bottom of a saucer, or some other similar useful article of a tea set.—We have spoken of this ware before.

A large crowd was always standing around the "Percussion Seal Press" of P. Evans, jr. This is one of the most convenient and useful little articles or exhibition. It is used with greater ease and less consumption of time than any press ever before invented, and seems to be the ne plus ultra of seal presses. It is light, elegant, and durable, weighing only about two lbs., and can be carried in the pocket. It is cheap too—and and press and complete, cost only five dollars—considerably less than half the price of the old press—All that is required to produce an impression equal to the weight of a lion, is a quick hand blow with the open hand! Every business man should have one.

Among the threshing machines, the "Improved Machine for threshing and cleaning Grain," from the manufactory of A. Gaar & Co., Richmond, attracted the most attention. It was a beautiful specimen of workmanship, and was awarded the first prize—a silver cup—as the best thresher on exhibition. On Thursday a threshed several bushel sheaf wheat at the rate of one bushel in 45 seconds, or eighty bushels in an hour.

Probably the best specimen of neat and elegant workmanship on the ground, was a buggy manufactured by H. R. Gaston, of this city. The wood is all of nearly all hickory, and is not painted but varnished and polished. The slightest defect in the wood or workmanship could thus be readily detected, but we believe there is not the least in either. It was altogether the most beautiful carriage on the Fair, and is highly creditable to the skill and taste of the manufacturer.

The best saddle we ever saw was deposited by G. L. Fearis, of Connersville. The price asked for it is fifty dollars, and from the labor which evidently must have been expended upon it, the quality of the materials used, and the ease which the saddle would apparently afford to both horse and rider, we are inclined to think fifty dollars a low price for it.

A spinning wheel invented by Mr. Matheny of Dearborn county, and exhibited by Joseph Stoops, of this county, who owns the right, attracted much attention from the farmers' wives and daughters. So did an improved Hand Loom, exhibited by Quackenbos & Davis, of Morgan county. These machines gave evidence that even in the good old "spinning wheel and cottage loom," much improvement can be made.

A locomotive lamp, manufactured by Olcott & Brother, Rochester, N. Y., appeared to be well fitted for what it was designed—to give out a brilliant light. A fire-proof Safe, from the manufactory of Duryee, Forsyth & Co., Rochester elicited much commendation from business men.

Messrs. W. H. & H. E. Carr, of Rushville, J. Sallgrove, of this city, and R. St. John, of Terre Haute, each contributed specimens of splendid harness. Mr. A. Wiggleston & Brother, of Martinsville, exhibited a beautiful Ladies' Hooped Saddle, which was much admired.

Pumps of all sorts were plentifully exhibited. The "Hydraulic Force and Lift Pump," manufactured by C. D. Winchell & Co., Cincinnati, being the most novel in its construction, attracted the most attention.

The fat cattle are only a few of the many articles on exhibition, and are such as attract not our attention in passing. The Executive Committee failed to make any arrangement for the accommodation of reporters, and the exhibitors, in many instances, were not present, so that many articles which merited a notice escaped attention. This was peculiarly the case with the horses, and the fruit and vegetables.

The Fair passed off pleasantly; the weather was fine the whole time, and not a single serious accident occurred. Some pockets were picked, and some money and other articles were lost, as was to be expected, but probably no serious ignominy occurred as followed to the gaffers. We believe all, or nearly all who visited the city found some kind of accommodations—as good as could be expected, considering the crowd, which on Thursday was estimated to be from 45,000 to 50,000 persons.

We have not heard what the receipts were, but presume they were considerably more than enough to pay expenses.

We shall publish a list of the premiums as soon as we can get them.

"Duty and Glory"—The Difference.—The Home Journal does faithfully and felicitously depicts with a few strokes of the pen, the character of the late Duke of Wellington, and the distinctives differences in his character and that of Napoleon Bonaparte:

It has been observed that the Duke of Wellington never wrote a despatch in which the world Dupreme romancer, and that Napoleon never wrote a despatch in which the world Grandeur was wanting. That is the difference between the two men, and the two countries which they belonged. It was the moral superiority that made Wellington the final victor. As a mere general, the Duke of Wellington was immeasurably the inferior of Napoleon. Napoleon displayed more genius in any one campaign, than Wellington did in his whole life; but the dogged man of Duty triumphed at length over the brilliance of Glory—and it was in the beginning, is now, ever shall be. The Englishman may laugh at the sordidness and stupidity of the Englishman. But sordidness and stupidity is capable of believing, in the august and commanding nature of Duty and the other sure is not, England's supremacy will be maintained. For every Napoleon produced by France, Britain will always be able to find a Wellington. The Duke was particularly fitted to command an English army, as much as his great antagonism to the soldiers of France. There was no flummery, enthusiasm or humbug about Wellington. Brief and plain in speech, vigorous in forcing obedience, doing equal justice to all ranks—a gentleman and a man of principle—his soldiers always knew what to expect from him, and could shape their conduct accordingly. Other generals have excited more enthusiasm in their troops, but none were ever more respected and trusted on that account than the Iron Duke."

NEW YORK, Oct 23.

M. O. Robert, agent of the U. S. Mail steamer, has addressed a letter to Hon. M. C. Conrad, relative to the treatment received by the Crescent City and other steamships of his line, from the Cuban Government, protesting in the strongest manner against the high handed outrages committed upon them, and requesting the action of the United States Government.

George Law, President of the Company, has also addressed Mr. Conrad, calling his attention to Mr. Robertson's letter. Mr. Conrad in reply to Mr. Law under date of Washington 20th says: copies of the 31 inst. has been received as no intelligence has reached Cuba since that was brought by your office; but no means unswering the intentions of the authorities of the Island to offer that you suppose yourself and cannot therefore inform you whether the mail or passengers will be permitted to land there or not, it may however be inferred from the past proceedings of the authorities that the mails and passengers conveyed in the Crescent City will not be permitted to land there in case Wm Smith should remain on board. Lewis, Schenck did not sail in the Crescent City in consequence of being detained by railroad accident. The owners of the C.C. insisted on Smith's sailing in her which he did.

WOUNDS IN CATTLE.—Are readily healed when the animal's blood is in good order, by applying a salve made of 2 oz. green copperas, 2 oz. white vitriol, 2 oz. salts, 2 oz. lunar caustic, 8 oz. molasses. Boil over a slow fire 15 minutes in pint of urine, and when almost cold, add 1 pt. oil of vitriol, and 4 oz. spirits turpentine. Apply it with a feather to the wounds, and cure soon follows.—The Western Farmer.

Unfortunate for the Whigs.—Don keeps rising, and as a natural consequence, the spirit of the whigs keep falling. What a pity, says the editor of the Doylestown Democrat, it is, that a little bit of charcoal can't be put on the spout beneath the pump that stirs up the country sinks, and sinks up the country rivers?

Won't somebody please blow out a furnace or stop a forge, or shoot up a glue factory, until after the election?—New-ark Eagle.

The Cayuga Chief is responsible for the following. He has been through the mill and ought to know how to manage the the affairs of which he speaks:—

Young man! keep your eye peeled when you are after the women. If you bite at the naked hook, you are green. Is a pretty dress or form so attractive? Or a pretty face even? Chances, boy, are of no sort of consequence. A pretty face will grow old. Paint will wash off. The sweet smile of the flirt will give way to the scowl of the termagant. The neat form will be pitched into dirty calico. Another and far different being will take the place of the lovely goodness who smiled sweet smiles and eat your sugar candy.

Keep your eye peeled, boy, when you are after the women. If the biddy-feet is cross and scolds at her mother in the back room, you may be sure that you will get particular fits all round the room. If she apologizes for wiping dishes, you will need a girl to help her. If she blushes when found at the wash-tub with her sleeves rolled up, be sure sir, that she is of the cod fish aristocracy, little breeding and less sense. If you marry a gal who knows a thing but to commit woman slaughter upon the piano, you have got the purest piece of versicle ever got up. Find the one whose mind is right, and then pitch in. Don't be lounging round like a sheep thief as though ashamed to be seen in the day time, but wade up like a chicken to the dough and ask for the article a like man.

A singular method of finding deceased persons.—The late London papers relate that on Saturday, the 30th ult., an agricultural laborer named Solomon Dunford, left Crown public house, opposite the Fountain Hotel, West Cowes, Isle of Wight, for a few moments, leaving his basket and a pint of beer, partly drank, but did not return. On Monday of this week, at noon, the body was discovered in the water, near the Fountain Quay. The features did not assume the same appearance as is usual in drowned persons, the face being entirely black. A "crowd process" was used for the recovery of the body by one of the coast guard. On Friday morning the circumstance being made known to him, the deceased the bystanders what if the party was drowned in the neighborhood, he would discover the body by means of a new kind of bread, in which should be deposited three ounces of quick silver, when the loaf would float all it rested over where the body might lay." However extraordinary it may appear, the experiment was tried, and on the loaf becoming stationary, a boatmen was put overboard beneath it, and brought up the body.—The man states that this is the fourth instance in which the experiment has been tried by him with him.

CONCERNING.—Why is an honest man like a gold mine? Because he is hard to find.

Why is a hundred dollar bill like a ton of iron? Because it is hard to raise.

Why is a broken merchant like a race horse? Because he is hard for money.

Why is a drunken man like dog fennel? Because he is on every side of the road.

Why is an editor like a pastry cook? Because he needs his dough.

Why is a metallist preacher like a night-mare? Because he's death on chickens.—Carrollton Mirror.

Agricultural Fair.—This re union of the farmers of Elkhart county, held in this place last week, passed off well and produced, we have no doubt a good effect on the agricultural community. The addressby Mr. Nelson, of Allen, we find not the privilege of hearing, not being able to gain admittance to the Court House in consequence of the immense crowd. We hear it spoken of, however, as an able and excellent production, and a resolution having passed requesting for that purpose, we hope hereafter to have the pleasure of publishing it.

We had expected to publish, this week, the proceedings and list of premiums, but have not been able, after considerable enquiry, to obtain them for this issue.—Goshen Dem.

The sale of pews will take place on Thursday evening, the 11th inst. at 7 o'clock.

THE ELECTION in Allen County was warmly contested; the whigs fought with desperation, knowing their very existence as a party depended on the result. Every artifice was resorted to—every trick adopted to deceive and mislead our citizens—and even, if we are not misinformed, attempts made to bribe them into the support of Gen. Scott. But it was all in vain. The democracy were firm and incorruptible; the falsehoods of the whig leaders recoiled on their own heads. This township gave a majority for Pierce and King of 349 votes, and Allen county of 739!!—Had not to the Allen Democracy! If we have not given the largest majority of any county in the State, we have, in view of what we had to contend against, achieved the greatest victory, and we claim to be considered the banner democratic county of Indiana.

THE ELECTION.—In another column we give all the election news that has come to hand. The wires are down to-day, so we have nothing later than we gave in our extra yesterday. It will be seen that Pierce is elected—and that, too, by a larger majority than was ever before given for a President. This is a gratifying result, and one highly honorable to the democracy and the people of the United States generally. It shows that they are not to be misled by the glare and tinsel of mere military glory, but that they require something more in a man who aspires to the high honor of the Presidency of this mighty republic. It will we trust put an end to this system of military hero-ism, and learn even the whigs that the people are becoming too enlightened to be led astray by shallow devices. The age of military humbug has passed away, and a man hereafter to have any chance for the Presidency must possess the requisite civil and statesmanlike qualifications for the office. It is a great triumph of principle, and ages yet unborn will reap the benefit of it.

The whigs are certainly most wofully defeated. We do not feel like rejoicing over a prostrate foe; but we cannot refrain from expressing some gratification at the glorious result, and congratulating our fellow citizens on the noble victory they have achieved.

CANAL TRUSTEE.—A Canal Trustee will have to be elected by the Legislature at its approaching session. We think it would be no more than fair that he should be selected from this end of the line this time, as herein-fore they have all been residents of the southern portion. We cannot see any just reason why so few public officers are taken from Northern Indiana. All, or nearly all, of our candidates on the Line State ticket live south of the National Road; and yet it is in the northern counties that the greatest and most reliable democratic strength is to be found.

We would recommend our fellow citizen, Isaac D. G. NELSON, as a suitable person to fill the responsible station. For talents, integrity, independence, and business qualifications, we will compare favorably with any other man who can be named. He is well known throughout the State as one of the most efficient and industrious members of the late Legislature, and will be a popular candidate with such members of the present Legislature as served with him during the past session.—We should certainly be pleased to see him elected, and we think he can, if the members from the North give him that hearty and united support to which he is so well entitled.

THANKSGIVING.—Gov. Wright has appointed Thursday, the 25th November inst. to be observed as a day of public thanksgiving throughout the State.

We expect it will be more generally observed than usual this year. The democrats have abundant reason to be thankful for the glorious triumph of correct principles in the late election; and the whigs as they become cool, and are enabled to view their condition in its proper light, will have still more cause for thankfulness that the country has escaped the evils that such an administration as Gen. Scott's would have been, must inevitably have inflicted upon it.

Secretary of State.—The President has appointed Hon. Edward Everett, of Massachusetts, Secretary of State, in place of Hon. Daniel Webster.

☞ We hope now the elections are over, and the mails relieved from the great burthen of whig documents under which they have groaned for some months past, that the postmasters will be enabled and feel willing to forward our exchange papers a little more punctually. During the past month we have missed a great many of our best papers.—Copies of two of Dickens's works, directed to us, are also detained in some post office between here and Philadelphia. We would feel glad if the postmaster in whose possession they are would forward them—as soon as he sees them through. We should like to have an opportunity of reading them ourselves; and inasmuch as we have paid for them, and the postage was paid in advance, we look upon our request as quite reasonable. Will he so far accommodate us!

☞ The election being now over, we shall be enabled to dispense with politics, and give our readers a greater variety of interesting news and miscellaneous reading. We have no doubt they will be as much pleased with the change as we are.

History of Democracy in the United States.—We have received the second number of this valuable work. The third number will not be issued until January, after which it will appear on the 1st of each month, until the series is completed. We sincerely trust this work will receive the support to which it is entitled by its superior merits. It is conducted by a gentleman of eminent ability, and those who wish to obtain an intelligent understanding of the rise and progress of Democracy in this country, from the earliest period of its history, can do so by purchasing the numbers as they are issued.

It will be comprised in 30 numbers, at 25 cents each, but 10 numbers will be sent for a remittance of $2 00. The work is handsomely printed, and embellished by portraits of distinguished statesmen, got up in the very first style of art. It will make a splendid and valuable book. Address CASE, TIFFENY, & Co., Hartford, Connecticut.

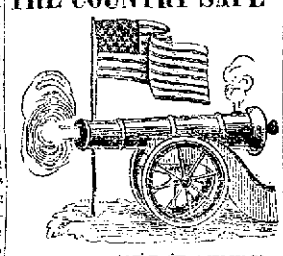
THE COUNTRY SAFE!



PIERCE ELECTED!

Yesterday was a proud day for the democracy. They turned out in their might, and defeated whiggery, horse, foot and dragoons.

Allen County nobly maintains her ground position.

Pierce's majority - -	310

Whitley County is reported 70 for Pierce. Wells County 250.

We have received sufficient returns by telegraph to ensure Pierce's election, by an overwhelming majority.

NEW YORK is safe. The city gives Pierce 19,000 majority. Buffalo 348; Rochester 300; the majority in the state will be tremendous.

PENNSYLVANIA is all democratic. Philadelphia 8,000; Old Lancaster (the strong hold of whiggery) 400 for Pierce—there is scarcely a grease spot left of whiggery in the Old Keystone.

Detroit, 650 for Pierce.
Chicago, 1000 do.
Michigan and Illinois have both gone largely democratic.

NOVEMBER 5.

New York 15,000 for Pierce; Ohio 20,000.
Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut, New Jersey, Virginia, Maryland, Indiana, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin by large majorities.

For Scott—Massachusetts, Kentucky, Vermont, and probably Tennessee.

Scott can't get over 5 or 6 states

Later and Better!

By the telegraph this morning we learn that Kentucky gives Pierce 2,000 majority.
North Carolina 6,000.
Iowa about 5,000.
New Jersey 5 to 6,000.

ALL FOR PIERCE!!

DE KALB COUNTY.

Auburn, Nov. 1, 1852.

Dear Sir,—The election has passed off rather quietly in this County, but the result shows that the Democracy have gained a complete victory. The official returns from all the townships in the County show that

Pierce received	780	Increase 96
Scott	" 391	" 5
Hale	" 164	" 68

Dawson ran 6 behind his party in Union Township, 5 in Concord (his own township,) and 1 in Jackson. This is bringing hundreds to his party with a vengeance.

Concord Tp. gave the largest majority, 80, about its usual majority; but Franklin did the best comparatively; it gave Wright 52 maj., and Pierce 57 over Scott, and 55 over Scott and Hale. The usual majority in this Township has been from 15 to 25.

Wells county, gives Pierce 295 maj.

We have not received returns from many counties in this State. We should judge it has given Pierce about 15,000 maj.

St. Louis goes 4,708 for Pierce. Baltimore 1,500.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Returns from one-fourth of the State, show again of 2,000 for Pierce over the vote of March last. He will have from 15,000 to 15,000 over Scott, and 18,000 to 10,000 over all.

RHODE ISLAND is reported for Pierce!—We can scarcely believe it. It may be true nevertheless.

The accounts from MASSACHUSETTS are conflicting. Some reports give it to Scott, and some to Pierce. Boston gives a Pierce majority of 1951. If both Massachusetts and Rhode Island have gone for Pierce, what states can Scott have got? We suppose he has Vermont, but we do not know any other State that he is certain of. He is emphatically a "used up man"—worse beat than Van Buren was in 1840—the worst beat than that ever attempted to run for the Presidency.

Foreign News.

FRANCE.—A decree had been issued in France convoking the Senate for 1th Nov.

Abdel Kader the Arab Chief has been liberated and is to receive a pension from the French Government.

The reduction of the army and ministry is still talked of.

The Sultan of Turkey has refused to ratify the Turkish loan. A change has occurred in the Turkish Cabinet, which is now quite Austrian and Russian in its character.

M. De Peagny has resigned as minister of the Interior of France. It is said that he will be appointed to high post in the Imperial household.

The funeral services of Wellington were celebrated at Verona on the 12th.

After the deliberations of the Senate the form of government will be changed.

The result will be submitted to the people and the Legislative body will be appointed to ascertain and decide the result.

The entry of Louis Napoleon, into Paris on the 16th, was celebrated with great éclat. The Paris correspondent to the Globe, says Louis Napoleon's marriage with the Princess Vasa is a settled fact, and will be solemnized previous to his coronation.

ENGLAND.—Parliament was postponed to the 4th of November.

The funeral of Wellington will take place on the 17th Nov.

ITALY.—By decree dated 16th, vessels from the U. S., are subject for the present to a quarantine of observation at Leghorn of 6 days.

The late political executions at Limigahna will be followed up with similar butcheries at Urbano and Ankona.

From the London Morning Herald.

The Franklin Expidition—Open Water to Wellington Channel!

The safe return of Lady Franklin's private expedition, the Prince Albert, with the glorious news of water up the Wellington Channel, which was supposed by some to be forever blocked with a barrier of ice, is a matter of no small moment to those who are deeply interested in the subject, and to Capt. Penny it must indeed be a source of the highest satisfaction.

It will be remembered that it was his "conviction that Sir John Franklin had gone through the straight leading northwest out of Wellington channel, (which for the present he named Queen Victoria Channel,) and that he had gone off in "clear water, and was beyond their reach.

That this will now prove to be the case there seems to be a most reasonable prospect; as Sir Edward Belcher, and that gallant young officer Lieut. Sherard Osborne, have proceeded in "clear water" into the Queen's Channel, with the Assistance and Pioneer, steam tenders.

That they may have passed out of the Queen's Channel, and through Penny Strait to the northwestward, is more than probable. If so, we may fairly hope that before they house for the winter, they will have come upon the seeld Winter-quarters of Sir John Franklin.

We cannot expect to hear any further tidings from Sir Edward Belcher's squadron till this time next year, unless, indeed, his passage through the Queen's Channel and Penny Strait was unobstructed, and he should have come upon further important traces of such moment as to induce him to detach a party to the North Star, and thus, with the Mary yacht, to endeavor to communicate with the whalers in the west waters. This is only an idea that occurs to us as possible, and no more.

Our next Arctic news will probably be from Behring Straits in December, when the frigate which has gone up with supplies for the Plover may be expected to have returned with despatches; and we anxiously await the intelligence we may hope to receive from Capt. Maguire and Capt. Moore, who are coming home by here as we have little doubt Capt. Collinson will have left some notice of his proceedings at Point Barrow, which we hope will have been visited this summer.

Arrangement of the Cuban Difficulty.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31st.

The Picayune learn that the New York, on Havana, arrived at Mobile this evening in 48 hours from Havana.

The U. S. steamer Pawhattan from New York having on board Judge Conklin, the newly appointed Minister to Mexico, had arrived at Havana. After his arrival had an interview with the Capt. General in relation to the recent troubles between the two Governments, when the difficulties were so arranged that the Crescent City would be allowed to land her mail and passengers, but Mr. Smith the person would not be permitted to come ashore. The Captain General had also acknowledged to Commodore Newton of the Pawhattan that he had acted too hastily and was willing to make a suitable apology.

Mushrooms and Shameful Conduct of the Whig Administration.—It occurs to us that the Fillmore Administration has dismissed Lieut. Porter, a son of Commodore Porter, from the Crescent City, and ordered him to report in person to the Department at Washington, to give an account of his proceedings at Havana. The removal of Lieut. Porter from the Crescent City was done, it is understood, at the instance of the Spanish Minister.

The noble and manly protest of Lieutenant Porter to the Spanish authorities in Cuba, in defence of his rights, in defence of the honor of the insulted flag of his country, does not meet the approbation of Mr. Fillmore and his Cabinet! This base-bordly conduct of the whig administration will meet with a storm of rebuke from one end of the country to the other. The crown spirit manifested by the whig Cabinet in this case it but another reason for the people to rise in their might and hurl them from the power.

This order, at the instance of President Fillmore, comes from John P. Kennedy, the Secretary of the Navy, the basest of the slanderers of Mr. Jefferson. Such a man is a fitting instrument to do the work of such an Administration.—Ohio Statesman.

POETRY.

From the Ohio Statesman

Calhoun, Clay, and Webster.

BY REST. H. THOMPSON.

The heart of a nation is stricken with grief,
The eyes of a people are moistened with tears;
For WEBSTER, the STATESMAN, now gone to his rest,
Covered with honors, with virtues, and years.

From the fair Sunny South came a mourning wail,
When the first of the three was called to the tomb;
CLAY and WEBSTER have followed CALHOUN's great son,
And the nation is clothed in deep sorrow and gloom.

Those STARS which shone brightest in councils of State,
From which lesser stars caught their own brilliant light,
Are obscured by the hand of infallible Death,
But shine on in glory, though lost to our sight.

Those bodies are dead, but their spirits still live,
Earth lost her bright jewels—Heaven claimed the rich prize,
Sent Angels as escort to bear them away,
In triumph to mansions of bliss in the skies.

These great ones are gone, the first of our sires,
Their deeds we have fallen—on whom will they rest?
For surely none living has won the grand fame,
Of the Star of the South, the East, or the West.

Then You'll Remember Me.

WORDS BY DANIEL WEBSTER, ESQ., TO MISS SOUTHGATE.

When other companions decline,
The patriot love they feel;
And bloy their trumpets everywhere
And wave their gleaming steel;
There in my purchase at cost, a time
I now in oblation lay,
Or at your worship no less sublime—
And you'll remember me.

When swords and planes measure delight,
The heart they won in haste,
When plates of soup and candy sticks,
Have ceased to please your taste!
When sparkle in no longer look,
In curles they've worn from thee:
At such a moment, I but trust,
That you'll remember me.

Burial of Daniel Webster.

The funeral ceremonies took place at Marshfield on Friday last and were attended by an immense concourse, the number of persons present being estimated at from six to seven thousand. Everything was of the most imposing character, and all felt deeply the saddening influence which the presence of the great dead inspired. The corpse lay in the open air, beneath a majestic tree in front of the mansion, exposed at full length.

The funeral discourse was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Allen, Mr. Webster's pastor, at half past twelve, and was very touching. After its conclusion, the procession was formed, for the purpose of accompanying the corpse to the grave. The pall bearers were six old farmers of Marshfield, in their plain and simple attire. The corpse, which was drawn by black horses, was followed to the tomb by Fletcher Webster and his children, Hon. Abbot Lawrence, Rufus Choate, Edward Everett, Gen. Franklin Pierce, Gen. Ashmun, George Davis, Chief Justice Jones, Ex-Gov. Morey, the domestics of the family, and citizens and strangers.

The procession was a most solemn and mournful demonstration of respect and regard. It arrived at the tomb about 1 o'clock. Here the immense concourse collected, and the coffin was again opened, to allow those who had just arrived in the steamer, to take a last look at the remains.

The corpse was finally committed to its kindred dust at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Webster did not visit the grave.

It is estimated that there were 50,000 strangers in Boston, drawn thither by the funeral solemnities.

The Irish Exodus.

From all quarters (says a late Dublin paper) the cry is still the same. The population is flying by the wholesale, and unless some unforseen obstacle intervene, the next census will show a more startling result with respect to the decrease of the old race than the official returns of 1851. The Clare Journal thus thorns over the exodus of the people:

"All parties calling us are seemingly turning their faces to the far West—the Biddy beyond the deep. Old, middle-aged, and young are on the move, leaving the old country, where there seems to be no hope for the young, where hope is building with the certainty, in their extinguished, of bearing good fruit. It is really distressing contemplate the changes that a few years will effect in Old Ireland if the drain for leaving that continue agitates the people shall continue. Before this period of the year until the present all idea of leaving for America was deferred until "spring returned again." The season for emigration closed at the beginning of out harvest, and the people never thought of facing the wintery blast before the coming spring; but now spring, summer, and autumn are alike. The shores are daily crowded by families on the move. It seems to them as if they had only to travel a hundred miles, instead of thousands. And why is this? There is none or great inducement in addition to that which before induced them, and that is, their people are there before them. The old remembered faces that disappeared a few months since are waiting, with the blush of hope, to assist them to leap ashore on the land of their adoption, and to sleep once more under the same roof with son or daughter that they hoped to see on this side of the grave. This is now a great cause for the long continued stream of emigration. Yesterday nearly the entire day the street was crowded with cars waiting for families to complete their arrangements with the emigrant agent. They are gone, and the numbers are sufficient to leave a blank in the parish where they resided that will not be easily filled."

Suspicion and Fear in France.

The able and intelligent correspondent of the London Leader collects certain facts which would go to prove that France is anything but satisfied with the projet of the Empire. He writes:

"The attitude of the population begins to cause some uneasiness to Bonaparte and his adherents. All the rigorous measures of December are resumed. In every department persons are confined to certain districts (internes) are suddenly torn from their houses and deported to the frontier, if not transported to Algeria.—Fresh arrests are taking place in Paris and in the provinces. A number of workmen, exposed of more than commonly ardent republicanism, are driven out of Paris. Numerous domiciliary visits take place in the towns and villages. We are living under the lois des suspects of 1793. The other day the house of Philips was absolutely besieged, because it was known that Aristide Philips, the ex-representative, had taken refuge there. He had been condemned to transportation, and had made his escape from the prison of Foix.

"The Prefect of Vaucluse, in concert with the Procureur de la Republique, surprised Tarascon in the dead of night, at the head of a whole force of gendarmerie, in the department and surrounded the town. They proceeded to search every house were they broken into in succession. The minutest researches, prolonged for several hours, led to no result.

"The press is still the object of continual persecutions. The Siecle has been condemned to a thousand francs fine, and a year's imprisonment. No one knows for what article, deserving so severe a sentence. M. Louis Jourdan, the editor of the Siecle, affected by this penalty, is a man known for his extreme reserve and singular moderation. His condemnation has produced a most unfavorable impression.

"The Censorship is not less active. A new piece called Richard the Third, was in preparation at the Porte St. Martin, in which the words tyrant and usurper occurred more than once. All the passages were expunged. What a pity it is that the censors cannot suppress history! History is guilty of a thousand other allusions equally criminal. Even in Switzerland, Bonaparte has forbidden the publication of Victor Hugo's brochure, on the pretext of insults against a friendly government.

"The elections in Paris are over. The government candidates (two highly respectable merchants) were returned by an insignificant majority. One half the electors abstained altogether from voting; the votes of the other half were about equally divided between the government and the opposition. One of the electors lost written upon his ticket this formidable threat: "If Bonaparte makes himself Emperor, I take my solemn oath to kill him.

"Another electoral fact, equally insignificant, was noticed in the Department of the Ille et Vilaine, at Rubigneu, in the communal elections. Not a single elector presented himself during the two days the ballot was open. The official bureau, finding that no votes came forward, also declined to vote, and went away, leaving the ballot-boxes empty. This is a fact unexampled in the history of elections. The garrison of the Var has been doubled. The frequent communications between the Var and the French refugees in Piedmont made Bonaparte fear an evasion of that department of the Grounde, a number of depots of arms and gunpowder have been discovered. Everywhere, in fact, there are signs of ogre-ism.

Horrible Murders near Troy, Ind.—The following letter from the postmaster at Troy, Perry co., gives the particulars of several of the most horrible murders which it has ever fallen to our lot to record.

TROY, PERRY CO., IND., Oct 24, '52.

GENTLEMEN:—On last Friday night, seven of the boats anchored in the river about three miles below this place on account of fog. On Saturday morning it was noticed that they all left except one, which remained at anchor. A man from the Indiana shore passing near in a skiff and seeing one man, asked him why the boat remained? He said "the crew had gone down to sound the channel?" The boat remained there during Saturday, Sunday, and until yesterday evening, when persons living on the shore, not having seen any one else aboard, concluded to go and see what was the matter. They found no one on the boat, and the cabin floor spotted with blood; the bedding was examined and found to be saturated with blood also; a hatchet and spade had both blood and hair on them, as if they had cleft the skull of some one; three trunks had been broken open and rifled. They next obtained some iron hooks and dragged the river, when they succeeded in drawing up the bodies of three men, who had been murdered.—Each of their heads had been split open—literally chopped to pieces. One had been sunk by a large beam belonging to a pair of scales, another by the weight of the same, and the other by an iron pot, which were tied to them severally.

"They were without coats, hats, or shoes, showing that they must have been murdered in sleep. A coroner's inquest is now holding over their bodies.

"The boat is laden with flour, whisky, candles, brandies, &c., and it is supposed was fitted out at Cincinnati. From some papers found on board it appears the owners' names were Miller and Gardner.

So far there is no clue to the mystery.—An other boat passed by this morning. The men on it said they had been in company with the same boat above this place, and that there were seven men on it then.

From the Wabash Gazette.

The Escape.

At the late term of the Wabash Circuit Court, Henry Harder, was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to the State's Prison for ten years. Being a married man, on Sabbath evening last, his wife came over to town, bringing with her two little children, one an infant, the other a little boy four or five years of age; and through the gallantry of our good sheriff, she was permitted to remain during the night in the jail with her husband.

Early on Monday morning as usual, the sheriff went to the jail for the purpose of taking the prisoner his breakfast; when on opening the outer door, he was met with the cried of loud sobbings from within the cell in which were the unfortunate victim of crime, his wife and little ones. These evidences of distress, the sheriff very naturally supposed were induced by the thought of the misfortune which had befallen the family, and the consequent long separation which was about to take place, between husband and wife, parent and children. The cell was soon opened, the door, thick, moulded sob became more frequent and mournful—Bob's kind heart pitied—his bosom heaved a heavy sigh, while the unaccountable fear, proved how sincere was his sympathy for the afflicted ones before him, as they sat in the dark gloom of that iron cell, his melancholy silence being broken, only by the sorrowful groans of his unfortunate inmates. In a moment, as if the reluctant hearts was being rent in twain, might be seen the receding form of the disconsolate wife, her face veiled, and her large, dark streaming eyes, covered with the broad proportions of a huge bandana, as she slowly and doubtfully moved to the door, which was to be closed between her, and her comfortless and heart stricken husband.—With the convulsive grasp of an afflicted and agonizing heart, she clasped to her bleeding bosom the new fatherless infant, which was clinging fondly to a mother's neck, as she passed that fatal threshold. She is gone! and following her with a long sympathizing look of compassion, our kind hearted sheriff sighed, "God bless you!"

The painful separation had now taken place. At the feet of the sheriff sat the afflicted husband and father, mourning as one who would not be comforted; refusing even the food which had been kindly provided for him, such was his grief.

In this condition he was left by the sheriff, who thoughtfully closed the door of the prison, and passed on to his quiet and pleasant home, where on filling himself surrounded with his own happy wife and children, commenced relating the melancholy occurrence, which he had just witnessed. All eyes and ears were attention, and each heart filled with sympathy, at the tale of distress which was then being related. At this moment, the conversation was interrupted by a loud rap on the door, when on being bade to come in, a messenger hurriedly entered and announced that Harden had escaped from jail, and had just been seen wending his way through a cornfield, just below our beautiful village, with all the velocity of human speed, superinduced by that feeling of desperation which ever imperils the fleeing criminal. In a moment, as the twinkling of an eye, the astonishing truth broke in upon the sheriff's mind, that a trick had been played off upon him, and he, whom he had mistaken for the heart broken wife, was no other than the criminal in disguise, who with her, had ill-gotten themselves to effect his escape from the prison. In the fury of his anger, at thus having been deceived, the sheriff seized the keys, hurried to the jail, rushed into the cell, seized the prisoner by the arm, and with much emphasis exclaimed, "I want to know who you are?" when, with a countenance, a quizzing look, and a beautiful smile of triumph, Mrs. Harden, dressed in her husband's apparel, whispered in his ear, why, I am the man. We shall not attempt to describe the feelings of our sheriff as he there stood metamorphosed as it were of marble, with his fair prisoner's bonabbin, bearing a sweet look of triumph, sufficiently bewitching to tempt a kiss from the most obdurate old bachelor, that ever hardened his heart and stiffened his neck against the captivating charms and sweet graces of the female gender—suffice it to say, that Harden made good his escape, and has not been heard of since he crossed the Wabash river just below town.

On Monday evening his wife was released from her voluntary imprisonment, and ere this perhaps, she has gone to join her husband in some remote region of country, there to enjoy the fruits of an occurrence which savory more of romance than of reality. The foregoing facts we had from the sheriff himself, and may be relied upon as strictly true in every material part. There is not the least suspicion of fault resting upon him in the matter. He was deceived by a trick as artfully contrived, and skilfully executed, as was ever played off on mortal man.

ACCIDENT.—We are indebted to the kindness of Capt. Van Swartouw, of Adams & Co's Express, for the following description of a fearful accident which occurred on the Portage railroad, near Pittsburgh, on Sunday morning, at Plane No. 8. It appears that as Adams & Co's Express car was ascending the plane, the chain by which it was being pulled up became loosened, having been improperly fastened, and the car dashed with tremendous velocity to the bottom of the plane. The car was within ten yards of the top of the plane when the chain gave way; immediately after it had started. Capt. Van Swirtouw leaped out, and by that means saved his life. The car having reached the bottom, came in collision with the baggage and passenger cars, completely demolishing them. Warning had been given to the passengers, and consequently they all succeeded in getting out safely, except those in the third passenger car, who were mostly ladies. The engineer on the locomotive, which had pushed instead of pulling the cars, reversed his engines, and proceeded in the direction of Plane No. 9. Becoming alarmed he jumped off, and the locomotive and passenger car dashed along the level to the descending plane. The car providentially became unfastened, and the locomotive alone flew down the plane, and was dashed to pieces.

Adams & Co's car contained a very valuable lot of freight having two safes in it, containing a large amount of money. Four merino sheep were killed, which were valued at $1600 by the owner; and everything in and about the car more or less injured.

The baggage master succeeded in jumping off in time to escape the collision between the baggage and express car. Capt. Van Swartouw is confined to his bed, the injuries he received being very severe. Only one passenger was injured, his ancle having been broken.

Eruption of Mount Etna.—The published accounts from Catania, as to the course of the lava, reach to the 7th September. Zafferana, which appears to have been in such a great peril, it is now hoped may escape.

We find the following graphic account of the lava in a letter dated Catania, Aug. 30:—

"Yesterday, after breakfast, we reached Zafferana; from the last house in the village we saw the lava at gunshot distance, and at that distance the heat was very great.

"The manner in which the extraordinary and frightful torrent advanced is not to be described—it must be seen. It moves slowly and uninterruptedly; the first waves, if I may so express myself, rise and fall at the least obstacle they encounter; then send forth streamlets here and there, recede, extend themselves and again advance. Now it is heard as a continued sound of glass breaking in the fire, nothing more; and now immense damage succeeds. Every now and then it is arrested, denoting the presence of greater obstacles or of water.

"By day all this grand mass presents an appearance between red and yellow, sometimes dull, sometimes brighter. I can ill describe the spectacle by night; that dull stream of fire, those clouds of ashes and sulphureous vapors are beyond description, and sublimely horrible.

"The streams of lava are much higher than the surrounding land, for as the former lands have become solid, the new lava flows over them.

"In truth, nothing can be more picturesque, could we divest ourselves of the feeling of misery and grief which pervades this hapless region.

"The lava flows over the richest and most cultivated part of the country, destroying vineyards, all sort of fruit trees, and some houses. Conceive the misery that has fallen on many proprietors and colonists.

"Since writing the above, we have accounts from Catania to the 24th September, up to which date the eruption continued, but without having destroyed any village through rich vineyards, woods, &c., have been devastated."

Texas.—By an arrival from Galveston, we have dates from Texas to the 8th inst., inclusive.

The Western Texan gives an account of a fight between a party of Indians and a scout of the United States Rifles, under Lieut. mont Frost. The Indians were completely routed, though it is not certain that any were killed. All their camp utensils were captured, together with a number of stolen horses. In their camp was found the scalp from Corpus Christi or Laredo, which led to the belief that the mail rider had been murdered by them.

The rumor that gold exists on the head waters of the Brazos, lives, says the Houston Telegraph, of the 6th inst., been fully confirmed by the recent explorations of Capt. Marcy.—It is added that the geologists of the expedition has deposited at the Department at Washington, several specimens of pure gold, which were found near the Wichita mountains.

A Pearl.—It is stated by the foreign papers that a Spaniard named Antoine Mules, of a Spanish frontier town, has made an ascent in a small balloon without any car except a small table, on which he lay down like a boy on a sled. Upon his legs were two umbrellas, acting freely upon their sticks, and in each hand was a set of silken screens, ajusting with hinges and expanding or contracting at will.—A rope, attached around his neck, communicated with the valve of the balloon, and around his body was a belt containing six or seven pounds of shot for ballast. Upon cutting himself loose from the earth, the balloon rose gently some two hundred feet, the atmosphere being perfectly calm. The moment then commenced a motion very much resembling swimming, and the balloon began to fall off with considerable rapidity, the speed increasing as the machinery of impulse began to work more freely. He went five miles in a straight line and then returned, performing the whole ten miles in twenty-nine minutes.

Fate of Mr. Frenaer.—The brave and talented Col. Frenaer, whose letters, under the signature of "Mustang," were so justly admired during the Mexican war, has fallen a victim to savage barbarity near the Southern boundary of Oregon. He started for the Shasta country in company with four or five others, some five weeks ago, for the purpose of attending the Democratic State Convention. Since which time the party has not been heard from, although the animal he rode has strayed into one of the settlements. An Indian squaw, who has fallen into the hands of Americans, reports that a party of men hearing the description of Frenaer's, were murdered by the Pitt River Indians, and the report is in all probability correct. Frenaer, Dubin, Peoples—three men who gained literary distinction in the Mexican war—all find an early grave in California.

Only twenty miles of the Lake Shore Railroad, remains to be finished between Cleveland and Erie. This will be done in a short time, when the unpleasant and often dangerous passage of the Lake at this season will be dispensed with.

Letter from the President to the Head of Departments, Notice to the Death of Daniel Webster.

The President of the United States has addressed the following letter to the Heads of the Departments, regarding the decease of their lamented associate, Daniel Webster:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington, Oct 25th, '52.

GENTLEMEN:—The painful intelligence received yesterday, enforces upon me the sad duty of announcing to the Executive Departments the death of the Secretary of State, Daniel Webster died at Marshfield, Mass., on Sunday, the 24th October, between the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning. While this irreparable loss brings its natural sorrow to every Americano heart, it will be heard far beyond our borders with universal respect wherever civilization has nurtured men, who find in transcendent intellect and faithful patriotic services a theme of praise.

It will visit with still more poignant emotions his colleagues in the administration; with whom his relations have been so intimate and cordial. The fame of our illustrious statesman belongs to his country—the admiration of it to the world. The record of his wisdom will inform future generations, no less than its utterance has enlightened the present.

He has bequeathed to posterity the richest fruits of the experience and judgment of a great mind conversant with the greatest national concern. In these his memory will endure as long as our country shall continue to be the home and guardian of free men.

The people will share with the Executive Department in common grief which bewails his departure from amongst us. In the expression of individual regret at this afflicting event, the Executive Departments of the Government will be careful to manifest every observance of honor which custom has established as appropriate to the memory of one so eminent as a public functionary, and so distinguished as a citizen.

The Acting Secretary of State will communicate the intelligence to the diplomatic corps near this Government, and through our Ministers abroad to foreign Governments.

The Cabinet are requested, as a further testimony of respect of the deceased, to wear the usual badges of mourning for thirty days.

I am, gentlemen, your obd't, serv't,
MILLARD FILLMORE.

To the Acting Secretary of State, and to the Secretaries of Treasury, Interior, War, Navy, and the Attorney General and Postmaster General.

A letter from California says: A man from Illinois has just arrived from Independence, having driven the entire distance two thousand turkeys, all hale and hearty. They cost him about fifty cents apiece in the States, and the cost of feeding them on the way was nothing: they feed themselves. He has been offered eight dollars apiece.

PETROLEUM, or Rock Oil

A Never-failing Remedy! Procured from a Well in Allegheny county, Pa., 400 feet below the Earth's Surface! Put up and Sold by

SAMUEL M. KIER,

Grant Basin, Seventh Street, Pittsburgh, Penn.

The healthful balm from Nature's secret spring.
The lethe of health, and life, to man will bring:
As from her depths the magic fluid flows,
Tranches our sufferings, and assuage our woes.

PETROLEUM.—It is necessary, upon the introduction of a new remedy, to the notice of the public, that something should be said in relation to its powers, its healing diseases, and the manner in which it acts. Many organizations is a mystery to most; and to understand the modus operandi of a remedies produce certain impressions upon these organs may be learned by experience in a short time. A knowledge of how we are watching the effects of various medicines, that we are enabled to increase the number of curative agents, and we have discovered a new medicine of unrivaled power, and we will in so far as duty to bring it before the public, and that the benefits to be derived from it may be more generally obtained it has been kept to hold back a seemingly witness powers we are afraid to espouse pain, and to alleviate human suffering and misfortune.

The Petroleum has been fully Tested!

At a long year and a half ago it was placed before the public as a remedy of wonderful virtues. Every one not acquainted with its virtues, despised its healing properties. Many who had used it, and found it beneficial, would not speak of it to their friends. Those who had suffered for years under the tortuning pains of Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia, were restored to health and usefulness. Others who were afflicted with Sore Throat, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, and Consumption, were relieved by its use. In making these statements we are aware that we should write truths—that we should make no statements that cannot be proved. We have the witnesses—crowds of them—to prove what we say. Those witnesses—crowds of them, to the efficacy of this remedy, some will testify for the Petroleum as done for them when no medicine were could before—and that upon pronounced by doctors and learned the result of incurable diseases abandoned by Physicians of unquestioned character, we have made to exclaim "This is the

MOST WONDERFUL REMEDY EVER DISCOVERED!"

We will try before you the several uses of some of the most remarkable cures; from a circular with the seal of the Petroleum, and to require more space than would be allowed by the printer. Since the introduction of the Petroleum, about one thousand shall say many physicians have been convinced of its efficacy, and have recommended it in their practice. In some diseases we do not recommend it, the people with it are not prejudiced—for its low cost and power to heal, it will not long become known as a very necessary article in every family. Even when the cure is thought to be impossible, when the case is pronounced incurable, and for many years—and when he who dies years ago suffer death in consequence of the unavailability of the Petroleum to the consumptive in the disease and exclaiming this "to them even hours is granted for all this fitting," when he speaks out in its power, we will exhibit it. The Petroleum is a Natural Remedy. It is put up as it does from the bosom of the earth, without any thing added to or taken from it.

It gets its ingredients from the best of sub-stances which it possesses over to the accent existing. The great Medicinal Agent in Nature, to deal all human complaints. The Petroleum is in this respect is like MINERAL WATERS, whose virtues in most chronic diseases, are acknowledged. Just only by the Physicians, but by the community at large. These waters in Spring, Virginia, Ohio, and other localities, are holding them in solution substances of different properties, and holding them in a homogeneous relation, are required to be taken in large quantities to produce the effect, hence simple proof to the fact, that the Petroleum is recommended by the master hand of Nature, for the alleviation of human suffering and disease. It is a natural remedy, and therefore Self-Cure her work, it is a remedy of unequalled Power, as we have the most abundant testimony. Truth will come every moment to all who may desire its best protection—but unless you succeed to its direction, it will not be of any benefit to you. Be not afraid of unfounded assertions, or unfriendly advice—Heartburn, Dyspepsy, Piles, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Scrofula, Mercurial Soreness, Eruptions on the skin Pimples and Sores of Erysipelas, Sore Eyes, Ringworm, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Chronic Diseases of the Kidneys, Ulcers, Worms, Sore Throat, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, and pulmonary affections of every description for long standing Consumption.

Directions accompany the Oil. Price 25 cents. For sale by Druggists and retailers. H. S. REED and W. WALLACE, Druggists, Fort Wayne.

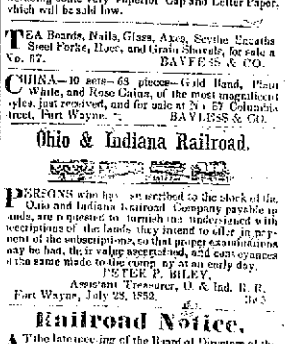
The Plow that Beats the World.



JOHN RICH'S

Patent Iron Beam Plow,

TROY, N. Y.

THIS PLOW has become the universal favorite of the farming community wherever it has been used, and needs only to be introduced to be in the hand of every farmer in the United States as it has taken the first premium at all the Fairs where it has been exhibited, viz: Saratoga the last county, and Rensselaer County, and at the great Fair of the American Institute at Castle Garden, New York, it was awarded the first Premium, a Silver Medal, for the Plow of the best and cheapest made in the country.

The undersigned having purchased the right of manufacturing the above superior Plows in Northern Indiana, is now manufacturing them at Freeman's City Foundry, north of the City Mills, Fort Wayne, where they will be offered for sale. Farmers are invited to call and examine them. WM. H. HARTH BLOMEW.

DR. S. D. HOWE'S

SHAKER SARSAPARILLA!

ONE quart bottle, the Great Spring and Summer Medicine!

For Female Complaints it stands without a rival. More Evidence! Another Remarkable Cure! Read it!

CHESTERFIELD, Ind., June 11, 1852.

DR. S. D. HOWE & CO.—Gents: I have been afflicted with a cough for the last ——— years, which could never be relieved by the many medicines I have used, and being my family physician I had despaired of ever getting relief; but hearing of your sarsaparilla, and it being highly recommended by those who had used it, I was induced to get a bottle of it, and to my astonishment, after using one bottle, I found relief, and by using three bottles I was entirely cured. I would recommend it to all persons afflicted with coughs, colds, or any pulmonary complaint, and to females in particular, as I believe it to be the best medicine ever offered to the public. I have also used Howe's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, and can safely say, that it is the best blood purifier I ever used. I consider it an extensive remedy for all complaints in the blood, &c. MRS. NATHAN GRAVES.

Remember it is warranted to do

Purely and Entirely Vegetable.

And as a Female and Family Medicine it has no equal.

Be sure you enquire for Dr. S. D. Howe's Shaker Sarsaparilla, and take no other.

Quart bottles $1 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $5.
